Changes From Construction Changed Students' Lives

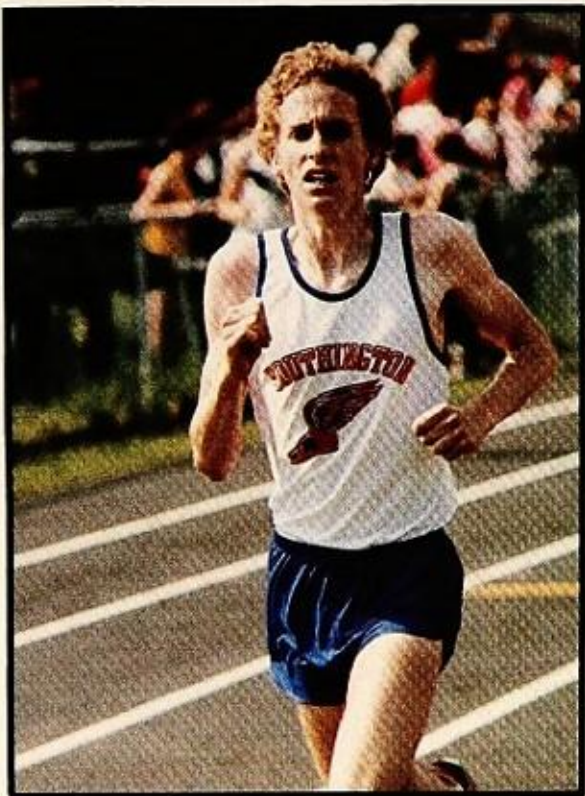

The construction at Southington High has brought about many changes in the school life of students. Many privileges which students had taken for granted in previous years were suddenly taken away from them. For example, due to the back parking lot being reduced to nothing more than a mound of dirt, the student parking has been greatly limited this year, preventing many students from driving to school. The few students that do drive must arrive early to cram into the small front lot or else they are forced to park in the student mud lot. Outdoor gym classes were forced to take up jogging as a new hobby, as the classes had to walk around the entire school in order to reach the softball field and tennis courts. Smokers were also forced to move to a new smoking area located at the opposite end of the school from last year's area. Band practicing procedure also underwent major alterations. Since the band room was torn down to provide space for the new auditorium and music department, the band had to rehearse in the third floor lecture hall and had to start outside ten minutes early for marching band practice in order to arrive on the field in time. However, despite all of these inconveniences, once the construction has been completed, the new resources will be beneficial to the entire school.

Our True Blue And White Grew With The Color Red

The traditional colors at Southington High have been blue and white for many years. This year, 1985-86, the color red was introduced into our scenario. The two main areas of this addition were in the sports and band uniforms. Various sports teams and the Marching Band had the color red used as an accent to their uniforms, mostly in outlining. The red seems to have warmed up the appearances and raised the spirit and pride of these two groups of students.

Our Little Apple

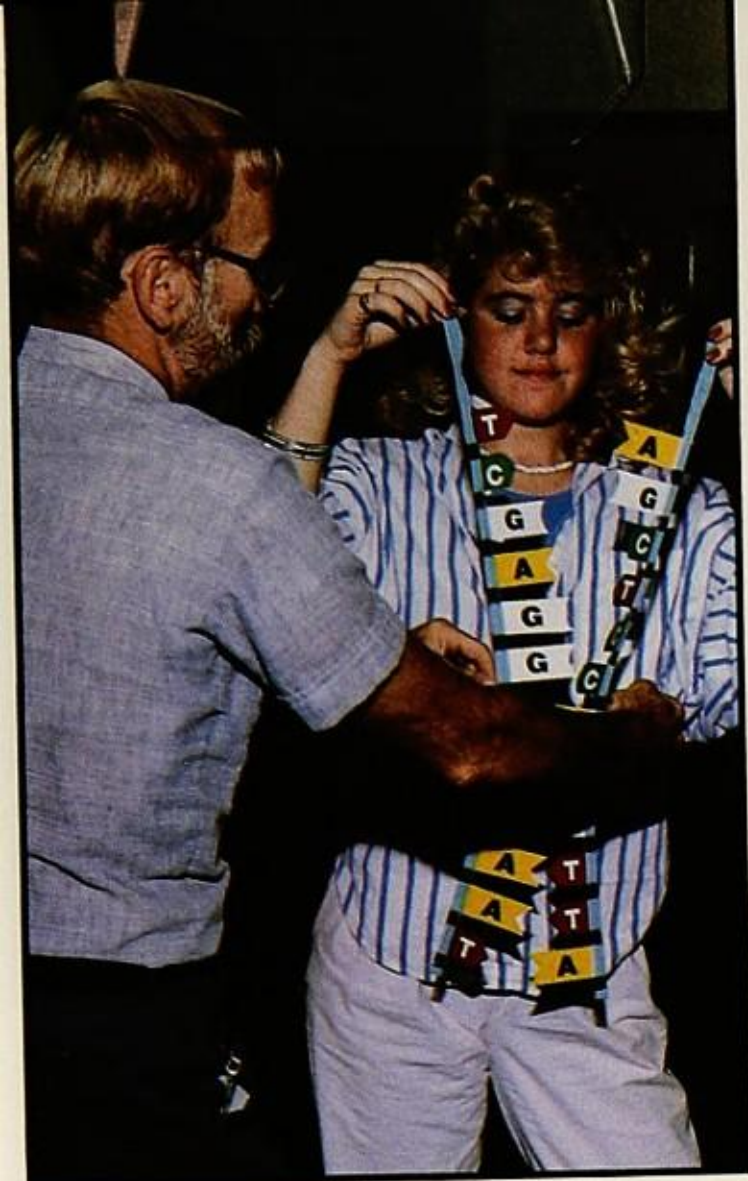

The Apple Harvest Festival was held from October 5th through the 13th, in Downtown Southington on the green and in the vicinity. The Festival first began in the Fall of 1969 and at that time there were a King and Queen, who represented the town. This year the queen was Loryn Lindquist, and her court, the hostesses, were Melinda Silva, Lisa Kozlowski, Kacy Palmieri, Carol Toffolon, Kerry Andrews, Lisa Tangney, Stephanie Maccio and Tracy Rich. To many citizens of Southington, the Apple Harvest Festival has become a tradition. Over the years it has grown into a festival of fun, arts and crafts, delicious foods and the annual Apple Harvest Parade. Some of the attractions are the Bed Races, with a bed called "Shalom" as the 1985 winner, Family Night and the Battle of the Bands. The band taking first place in 1985 was called Rockstra. Such delights as apple fritters, apple rings, conestoga steak and pepper sandwiches, fried dough, bratwurst, clam chowder and various other foods were served to the eagerly awaiting crowds. Also on Saturday, Oct. 12th and Sunday, October 13th, there was a wide assortment of venders and people selling articles ranging from clay figures to paintings, to puppets and artificial flower arrangements. These people had come to participate in the Festival and enjoyed being a part of a tradition. All who participate and come to enjoy hope this wonderful event will continue for many years to come. It brings fall to Southington in a most delightful form.

Pursuing Excellence We Grew Through Education

Southington High provided its students with many ways to grow through education in academics, the arts, trade skills, and in computers. The library received several new Commodore and Apple Computers this past year which students spent time learning how to use. The high school also provided courses for college bound students, including SAT preparation courses. The arts program, band, and chorus have all exhibited fantastic growth and success over the last few years. The Industrial Arts department also progressed with the talent and skills of the students.

Times Together Were Times Of Growth

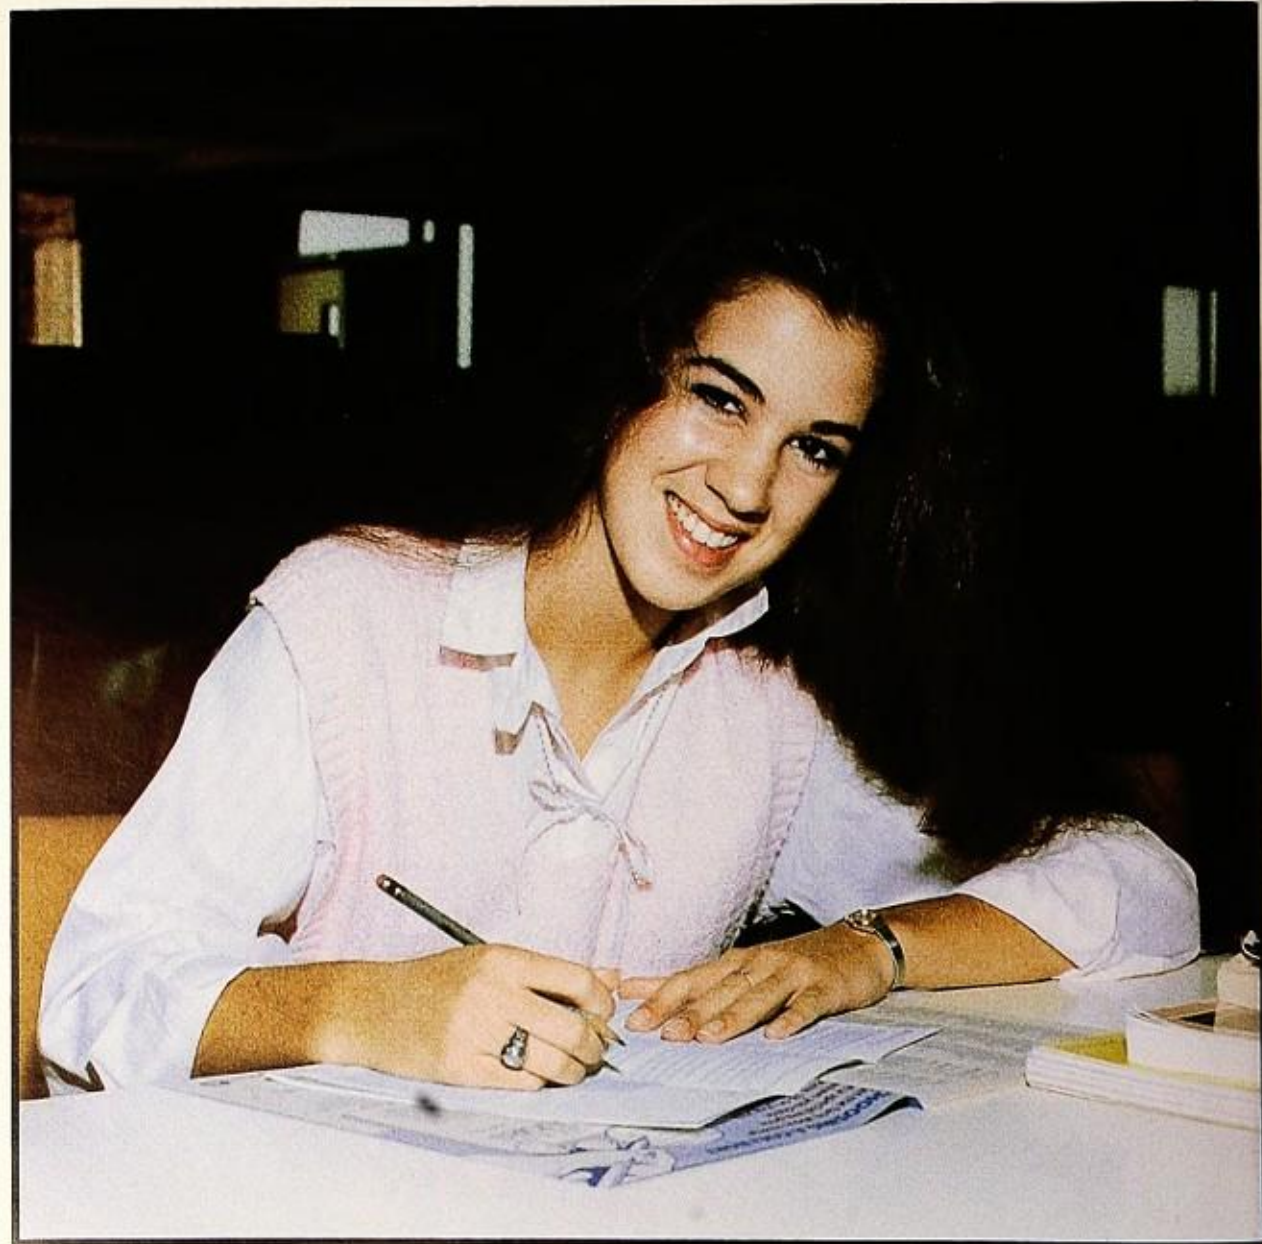

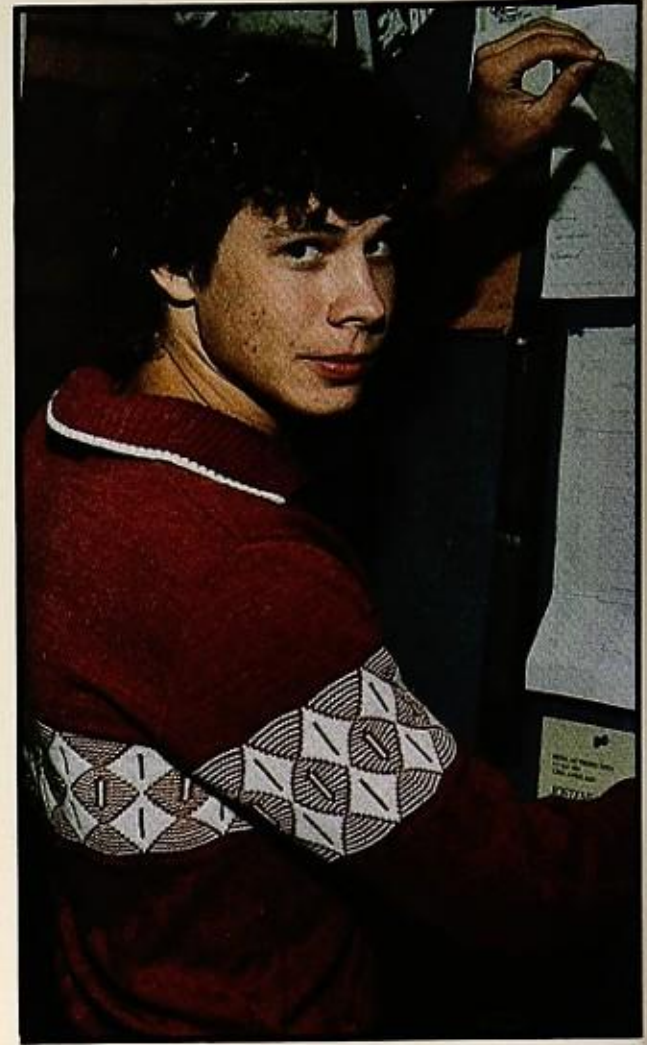

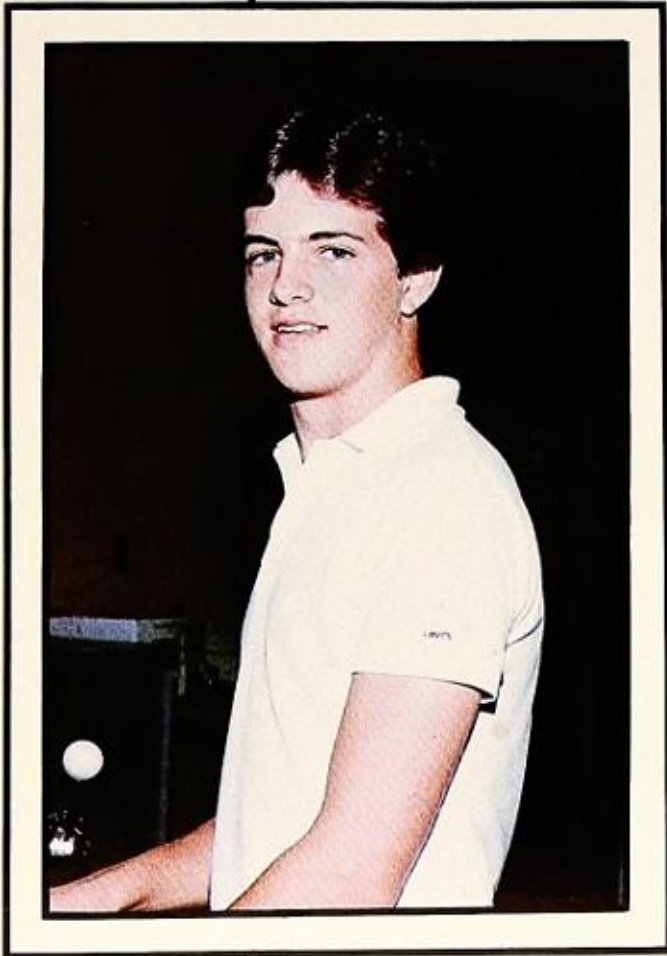

The time that we spent together at S.H.S. turned into memories and friendships that will never be forgotten. Many of these friendships began in our sophomore year. Editors of the Emblem and the Chronicle had become closer due to the amount of time each person had donated to both the activities and others involved. Other friendships grew between club members or officers. Clubs such as Key Club, FBLA, and FTA spent a great amount of their time helping others. Being a part of larger groups such as the band or sports placed people in a situation where there were many different ideas, yet everyone worked towards a common goal. Within the classroom, other friendships grew and with each new class and passing year they became stronger. Each friendship here is different, yet we all have one thing in common which is that we all are one, the class of 1986.

PEOPLE

The Friendly Faces Of Southington High

Southington High School had an energy bursting within its walls that displayed the enthusiasm of school spirit — the students! Every senior, junior, and sophomore brought about a unique style to the everyday life at Southington High School. Each student had an individual personality which spiced up the daily curriculum of S.H.S. The friendly faces of the faculty and administration added something special of their own to our years spent as high school students. This portion of the yearbook features the school population in formality and sophistication by means of senior, undergraduate, faculty, and administration portraits.

Advisers Helped Students

The senior class of 1986 would like to devote these pages of our yearbook to three teachers who have been very important to the prosperity of the senior class, as well as the rest of the student body at Southington High. Two of these teachers, the class advisers, Mr. Keith Abrahamson and Mrs. Cathee Hayner provided invaluable amounts of time, energy, consolation and encouragement. The third teacher was Miss Deborah Benjamin, Chronicle Adviser, without whose dedication, skill and task commitment this yearbook would not have been possible.

Seniors Are People, Too; Special People

Seniors were a special breed. It was their final year as high school students. There was a growing anticipation among the seniors as the year progressed which many had labeled "senioritis". This "senioritis" hit as early as Christmas. This growing excitement and expectancy gave the senior class a rare style and character solely their own. Not only were seniors people, too, but special ones at that.

Super Seniors Soap

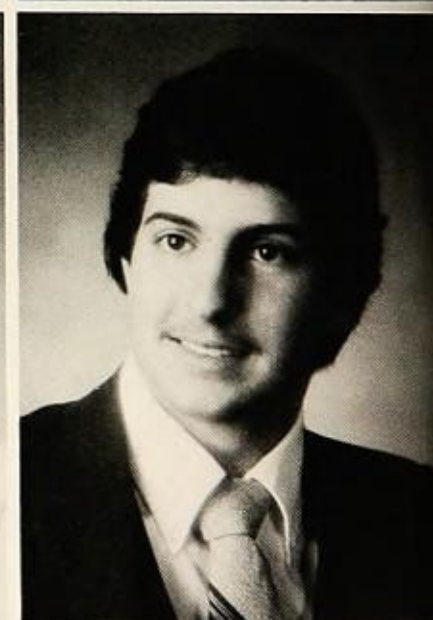

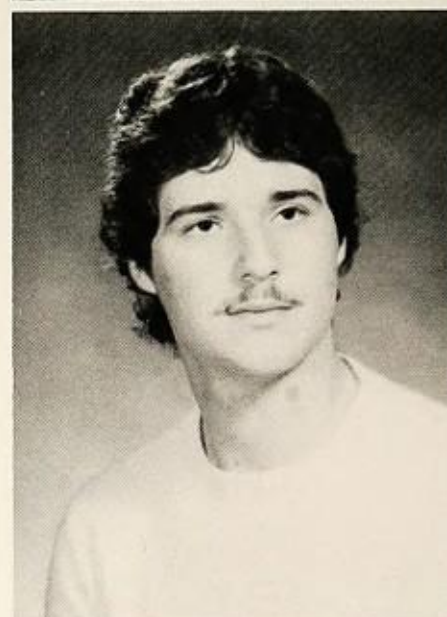

SPECTACULAR! The class of 1986 was said to be spectacular, not only because they were seniors, but also because they were a group of outgoing and fun-loving people.

The senior class knew how to have a good time, or to make one. In the above picture, a group of students added some fun to a hard days work of washing cars.

The senior class was not only notorious for mixing "business and pleasure," but also for their various other activities.

The class of 1986 was a large part of many of the sports teams, clubs, and musical organizations turned out by S.H.S.

The seniors' ability to be versatile in their activities and organizations was what made them SPECTACULAR!

We're so excited!

EXCITABLE! By their senior year, seniors had plenty of reasons to get excited. It was their last year of high school, and graduation loomed deep in the shadows, yet seemed so close.

"Senioritis", a word equal to excitable, seemed to set in as early as Christmas for quite a few seniors. The class of 1986 had a great deal of energy and it showed throughout their senior year. This energy came through powerfully with each event at Southington High — everything from proms, Hat and Clash Days, and Halloween to such smaller events as flower sales or setting up for a dance.

Seniors get noticed

NOTICEABLE! The ability to be noticeable had always been a specialty of seniors. The seniors were the veterans of the school and enjoyed certain rights because of this. They became involved in circles of friends who would often go to any ends just to be noticed. The seniors dressed up, dressed down, and just dressed plain weird. They tried to get the most unique haircuts, or wear extraordinary costumes for Halloween; each senior was noticeable for one reason or another. Some of these reasons were good, such as exhibiting talent, and some were not good, such as being boisterous or rude. Whichever the case, the ability of seniors to be noticeable was certainly unquestionable.

On Halloween, Hope Zieminski enjoyed being noticed as Captain Kidd. But, not only on Halloween did seniors try to catch the attention of others. New hairdos and wild outfits were starters as eye-catchers. Other seniors simply came out of their shells and blossomed!

The Image of Seniors

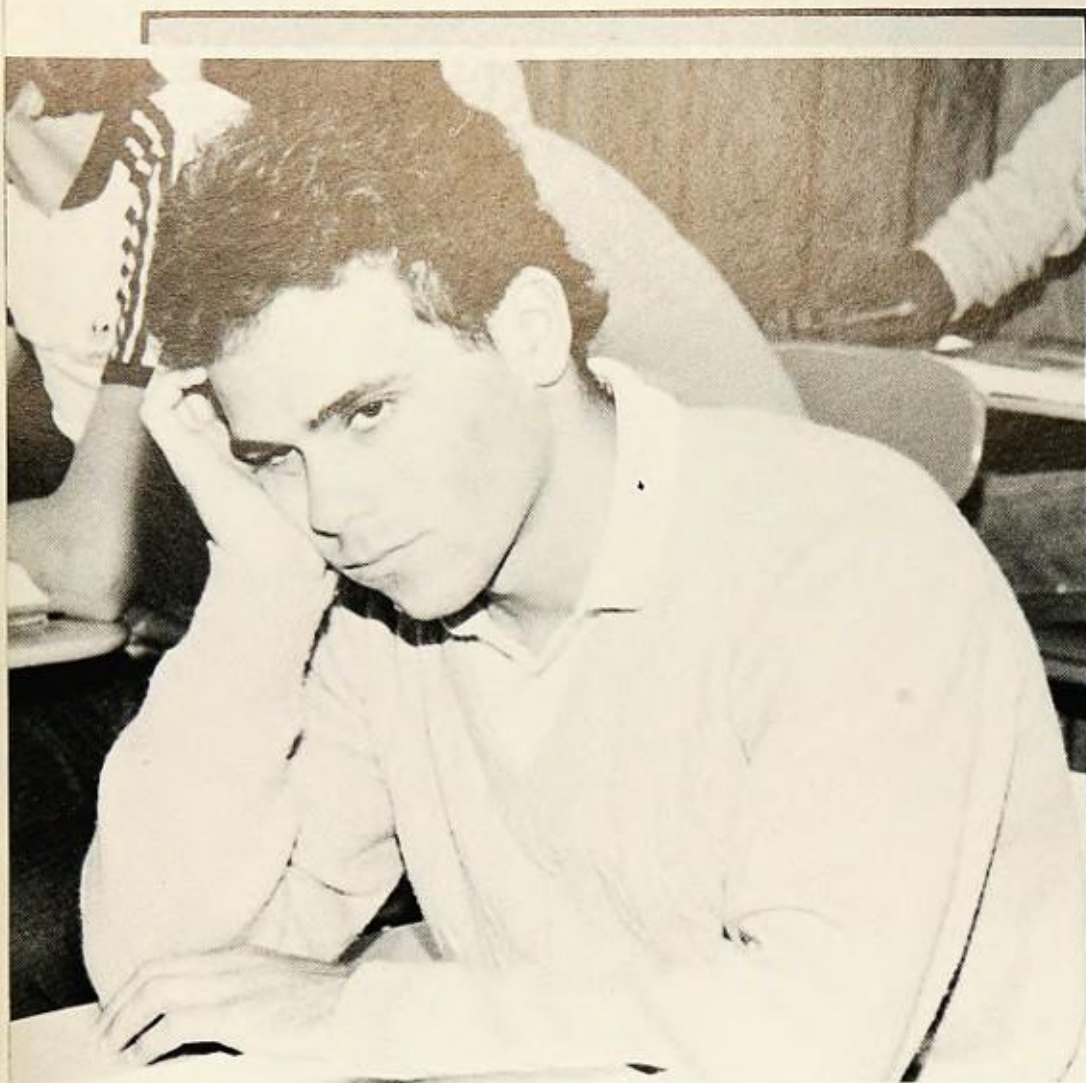

IMAGINATIVE! Seniors at Southington High School were said to be imaginative because of their ability to express their emotions in very unique ways.

Although styles of dress did display many different imaginative personalities, S.H.S. seniors found various other ways to display their uniqueness.

The class of 1986 also exhibited their creativity through their actions. Dances held at Southington High School were good places to see examples of their inventive behavior.

These were just a sampling of the many examples of the "wild imagination" the senior class of 1986 possessed.

Rigorous schedules go on OVERTIRED! It was the one word which described a senior's life. Most seniors dragged themselves out of bed somewhere between 5:45 and 6:30 a.m. before encountering a full six-hour, exhausting day of school. The day not only included normal academic classes, but also extra-curricular activities which students had to run to and juggle between classes. Steven Fortier, shown above, contemplated these hectic thoughts of a busy day.

After school was out, a senior may have a few moments at home getting a quick bite before work. Most of the seniors were employed on Queen St. or Route 66, the two major strips of employment in town. After work was out, somewhere between 9 and 10 p.m., it was home again to start homework.

Seniors always made it an early (?) night on school nights — bedtime at about 11 or 11:30 p.m. Then, a normal, but deadly, 5½ hours of sleep and the whole cycle started again.

Don't take life too seriously

Are we having fun yet?

ROWDY! Seniors always were an extremely rowdy bunch. Most of this rowdiness had to be contained in the classroom and replaced by quietness. However, the cafe was about the only place where the seniors could let off all the pressures of their rigorous study and work schedules. In the cafe, a rowdy, easy-going attitude was more the rule than the exception. Shown above, Doug Kolpak and friends displayed their carefree, fun-loving dispositions during their lunch period. By the number of books on the table, it was observed that they obviously had a lot of steam to let off, as did many seniors this year.

The rowdiness was displayed by all various classes, but the seniors exhibited the best example of it. The probable cause for this was that they all had a much more severe and crazy schedule than did the underclassmen.

Hittin' the slopes

Each winter, Mother Nature and the snow machines covered Mt. Southington with a good base, and many SHS students gathered at the slopes. The area offered skiing for all levels with its wide variety of hills and trails. For the inexperienced, there was Hill One, a gentle slope. The high school skiers would always remember the first trips to Mt. Southington and the endless hours spent on this hill. For a bigger challenge, a dozen other trails provided enjoyment. The trails ranged from easy to most difficult, depending on the skiers' accomplishments. Some preferred cruising down one hill, while others liked to race or jump. Mt. Southington was versatile and had something for everyone including private or group lessons, a race team or just rental equipment for those beginners who wanted to invest in crutches instead of skis.

A place to joke and smoke

The smoking area was a place of refuge for many of our Southington High smokers. They were free to go outside and smoke while conversing and joking with friends. However, this year, the smoking area was right smack in the middle of construction in the back of the school. The students were limited on space, as well as time, at the smoking area, a bit cramped for the number of students who utilized it every day.

Gerrit Kimball, shown in the above picture, enjoyed his time outside at the smoking area; this was obvious from his wide grin and peace sign. Many students felt quite at home outside, and the smoking area was a place for students to enjoy smoking freely without disturbing any non-smokers.

Food drive brings help

The Student Council and their advisor, Miss Cope, ran another successful Thanksgiving Food Drive this past year. The chairpersons, Sue Mangiagli and Loryn Lindquist, worked diligently to collect food, enough for twelve needy families in Southington.

What surprised the students was the overabundance of food in the end. There were approximately 200 extra cans of food that were donated to the Southington Food Bank.

The food was brought in by the students of Southington High School. The homerooms competed with each other to see which could bring in the most cans.

Since the Emblem room and the Chronicle room made up the size of a regular homeroom when combined, they were given permission to join forces on the food drive.

This combined room consisting of 25 students, brought in 452 cans of food to help the needy of Southington. As a result, the Emblem and Chronicle were awarded a pizza party as a sign of thanks for their effort to help others.

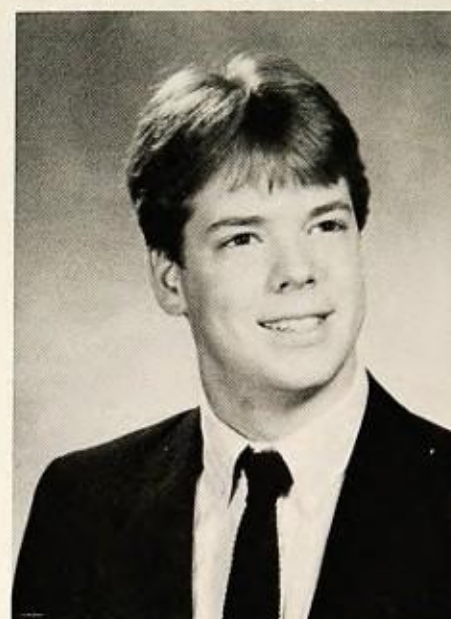

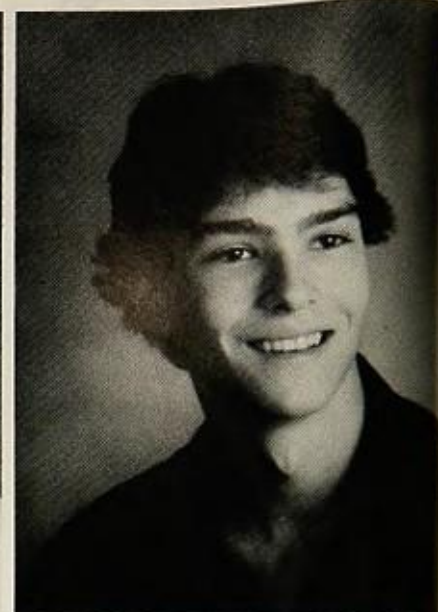

SHS's amazing spirit

School spirit was shown in many ways. There were the ordinary ideas: supporting the teams, pep rallies, cheerleading. But, we all knew that Southington High was not exactly ordinary and this year, the Key Club came up with an imaginative way to show spirit. During Key Club week, the last three days were set aside and designated as Blue and White Day, Hat Day, and Clash Day.

Blue and White Day gave everyone the chance to show their pride in Southington High and the Blue Knights. Hat Day and Clash Day gave the opportunity to show creativity in the styles of dress.

The students looked extraordinary as they walked through the halls in their sombreros or pumpkins on Hat Day. On Clash Day, they attended classes wearing plaid, stripes and polka dots of all colors. These days were fun for all students who participated and memorable for those who didn't. It showed everybody that Southington High is unique and has plenty of spirit. Had a new tradition been born?

Happy birthday, Connecticut

In 1985, Connecticut became 350 years old. The state enthusiastically promoted its birthday exclaiming that it was "A state of celebration." T-shirts, bumper stickers, key chains and the like were sold to encourage spirit in Connecticut's residents. Many special events were planned to keep the birthday spirit alive. Such events included country fairs, town carnivals, and community concerts. Some of the students at Southington High School helped to celebrate Connecticut, too. English students showed their spirit by writing essays on Connecticut for entrance into a state contest. Other students visited the fairs and festivals. Some students, who participated in a community concert, commented that the birthday celebration provided many fun things to do. They felt that the celebration provided opportunities to enjoy the state. Overall, the celebration was favorably supported. Happy birthday Connecticut!

Dirt lot-stick in the mud

After two years of debate, the town of Southington approved an addition for the High School. The addition added a 900 seat auditorium and a vocational-agriculture center to the school. Although the addition was sure to provide a favorable outcome, many inconveniences were created. The side-effects of the addition were certainly most felt by the seniors, whose last and most memorable year at Southington High School was disrupted. One of the biggest trouble-makers was the lack of parking space. The addition took up the land once used for parking, thus shortening the number of permits given out. Also, much of the parking for students was in the dirt parking lot. Although most put up with it, students seemed to disfavor the lot, especially in the rain and snow. For these were the times when one got splattered or stuck in mud. The most popular question was "Why couldn't they pave the lot?" After all, the lot was ready to be paved in August!

Students' best friend

Ah, lockers. Those teeny, tiny homes one lived in for three years. Thinking back with disgust and laughter — remember how your gym bag always got caught on the side and ripped, leaving a path of clothes? Or, how you had to search to the bottom of a never-ending book pile in order to get that English book for class, when you were already late? Or, how you had to flatten, roll, and cram your coat in there, just to have it fall out and get stuck in the door? Oh, and how people decorated those homes! Often the locker provided the room for a surprise birthday party or the field for a football celebration, overflowing with balloons and streamers. And lockers filled with comics, friends' pictures, quotes, funny sayings, hunks ... Hmm.

204-room you hate to face

204 was that room that everyone hated. Some students never saw it but others lived in it. Either way, no one liked it. One went to 204 in order to be disciplined because he skipped a class, was late to class, or was tardy for school. The discipline of 204 consisted of speaking to one of the supervisors and then staying after school for detention for a certain number of days. Sometimes 204 was never-ending. Most students agreed that the 204 policy for being tardy to school was the most unfair. For being one minute late to homeroom, one was sentenced to 204, regardless of the circumstances. Also, one was often stranded after the detention because of no ride home. It seemed a lot more convenient to stay home.

Winds and rain hit state

On Friday, September 27th, 1985, Connecticut schools had an unexpected vacation due to the arrival of Hurricane Gloria. The prediction led to the preparation of the state which was visible through the taping of windows, putting away of furniture, and closing of businesses. The hurricane struck with great winds and intermittent heavy rains. Lasting a few hours, Gloria then quickly dissipated. Students reported a variety of stories in the storm's results. Some said that there did not seem like there was a hurricane and that there was not much damage. Others said that there was much damage which lasted for a couple of weeks. It appeared that the damage depended on what area of town one was in. Most of the damage consisted of large overturned trees, fallen limbs, and downed power lines. The power was the biggest problem, some areas without it for two weeks. Many Hurricane Gloria jokes followed, but then she was forgotten.

Bananas on wheels

School Buses. Big, yellow, too many people. No shock-absorbers. Bus stops too far away. Fond memories? School buses could be tolerated if one had friends to talk to on the way home. But, as people stayed after school for makeups, detention, extra help, sports, or some other function, one might be left to make a boring trip home. Also, the buses left too early. How could drivers expect someone to be dismissed from class, travel down a flight of stairs, down and across two halls, open a combination which is always stuck, figure out homework, put on his coat, travel back down and across two halls, and walk all the way to the end of the Flanders Street driveway to the last bus, in four minutes? No wonder so many students wanted or had to drive.

Our own social hall

Cafeteria — not the most pleasant sounding word in our school vocabulary. Most students thought of the Southington High cafeteria as a study hall and/or lunch. This was a remarkably obscure idea since neither was ever done to fulfillment. Studying could hardly be done in the loud and raucous surroundings. It was difficult to hear oneself think, never mind study. As for the lunch idea, well . . . many comments have been made in reference to "typical cafeteria food". The favorite joke among students was the phrase "assorted lunches" on the menu.

The cafe was many things to many people. Athletic groups, cheerleading practices, and meetings were held there. The Awards Night and National Honor Society ceremonies were also held there over the years.

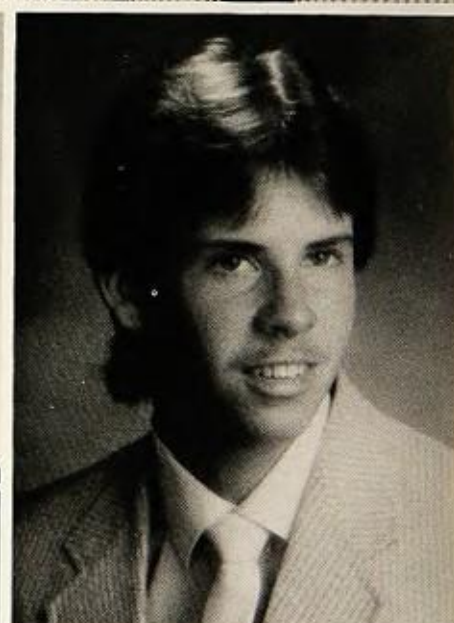

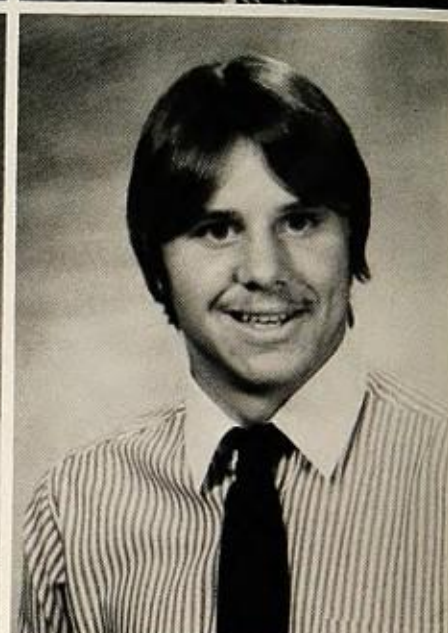

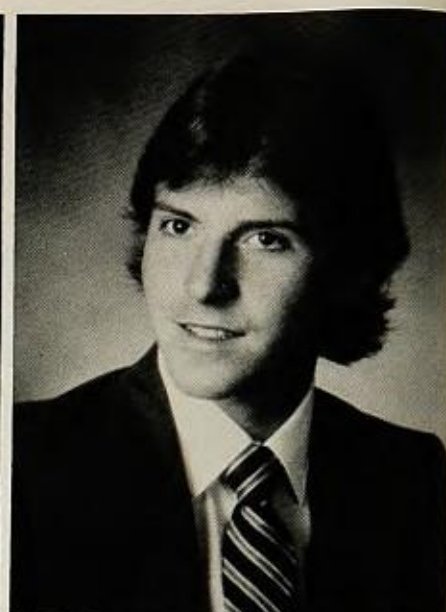

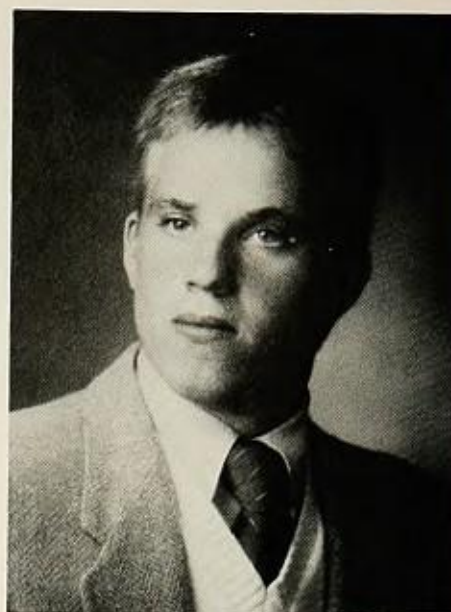

The cafeteria was the magical place for all Junior Proms. After a lot of work with decorations, the cafe looked extraordinary. In the above picture, students were busy cleaning and moving tables in preparation for a dance.

Notes in the new room

The Southington High School Concert Band and Wind Ensemble rehearsed in a new room temporarily. Instead of using the largest music room, M-3, the bands used the former lecture hall 301. The construction for the future auditorium created a fire hazard in M-3 since one of the two exits had been blocked for construction. Room 301 was smaller and had a lower ceiling than room M-3. Musically, the smaller size was better since all of the band members were closer to each other and the sound of individuals was more easily heard. However, Mr. Berry had often said that the worst part about the new band room was the comfortable, swivel chairs. Band members ran the risk of getting too comfortable and subsequently sacrificed sound quality.

Having to walk up through the library and through the crowds in the halls created the greatest inconvenience. "People accidentally hit or pushed you in the halls and that's risky when you're carrying an expensive instrument," said one band member. "Otherwise, it's really no problem."

Practice makes perfect

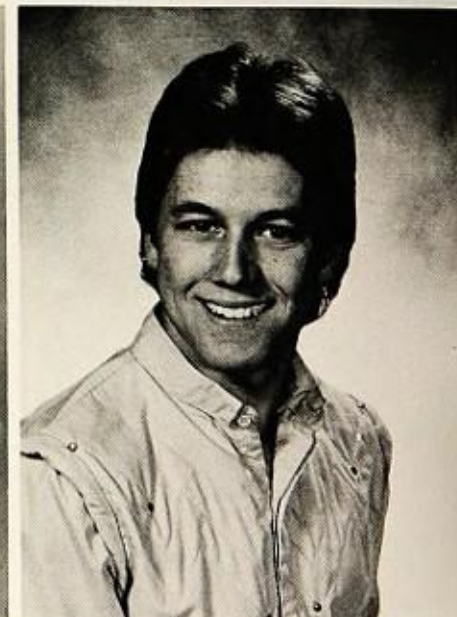

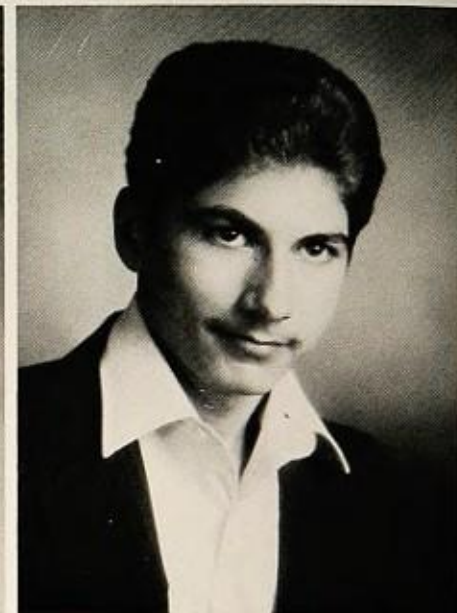

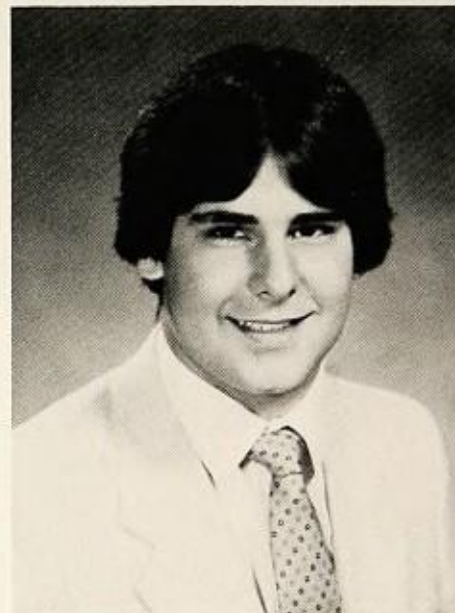

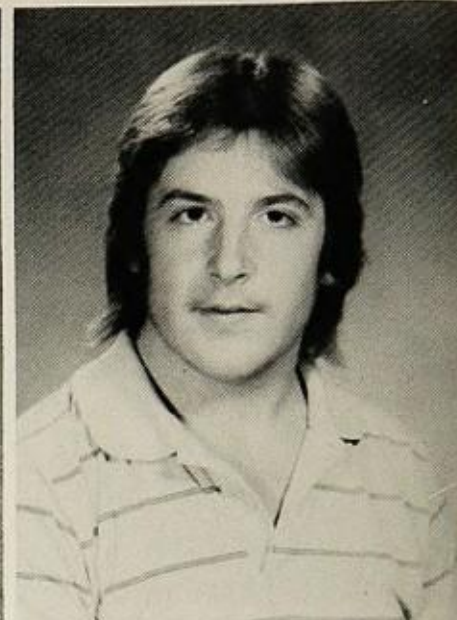

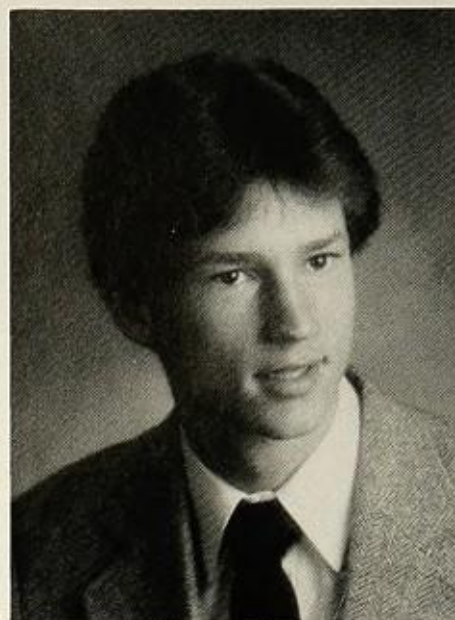

With the construction in progress, fire drills became increasingly important. The construction blocked off certain parts of the school; therefore, created fire hazards in areas such as the music suite and some of the industrial arts rooms. Several trials of the exciting new procedure during a fire drill were successful in that they did not take too much time and did not cause much confusion. Several students said that they didn't mind having fire drills and various seniors said they were surprised at their own lack of confusion. Everyone hoped that the school would not have to face a real fire and most agreed that it was "Better to be safe than sorry."

Music on television

Step right up, folks and gather around. It was the one and only incomparable Music Television. Why, where else could you see people with hair in every color, from infrared to ultraviolet? And where else could you witness a guy who sang in a junkyard and spray painted his shoes and other assorted items? Certainly there was no other channel that consistently showed slips of a manned space flight; a mission whose only purpose was to plant a M.T.V. flag on the moon.

No wonder so many kids were calling their local cable companies saying, "I want my M.T.V.!! ... because ... the VCR and the radio are broken, the V-J's are cute, it fills the time meant for homework, mom and dad just bought earphones for my TV, and Kasey Kasem and Dick Clark just don't cut it anymore. College - a senior's choice

A most important decision for high school seniors was selecting an institution of higher learning. At first, this selection appeared rather simple. There were numerous attributes that each college and university had. Making an outline of the type of school that a student wished to attend was the first step. When compiling the outline, the student considered many things, such as: how large should the college be, what kind of environment (urban/rural), what is the male-female ratio, what is the faculty-student ratio, how far away from home is the college and, most important of all, how good is the education at the school. "The guidance office computer helped me incredibly," said one senior. The class of 1986 made a variety of decisions. Some decided not to attend a college but rather to go to work. Others' decisions lay somewhere in between.

A most familiar ringing

Bells, bells, bells, bells, bells, bells, bells. Some words of wisdom: the passing and late bells at Southington High School rang on a note somewhere between F and F-sharp. Also, the pitch had not changed over the years, only the sickening sound of last year's bell had been cleaned, nothing else about it had changed. The bell still rang at the same time everyday as it did last year. The periods were not shorter or longer and school did not start earlier or get out later than before. Surprised? You shouldn't be.

The bell rang approximately eighteen times a day. Using some quick math, we found that the bell rang 90 times during the usual school week (five days) and was rung approximately 360 times a month and 3232 times during the regular school year. The information may come in handy someday, so learn it well.

Little ones go to school

Between classes, you might have walked down one of the inner hallways of the school, past all the home economic classes. You saw many people in the hall, all at eye level, until you reached room 207. From that room, sounds of laughter rang out into the hallway. Pausing for a second glance revealed a room full of three-year-olds. Was this the result of a chemistry experiment that went wrong? Of course not; it was the Southington High nursery school.

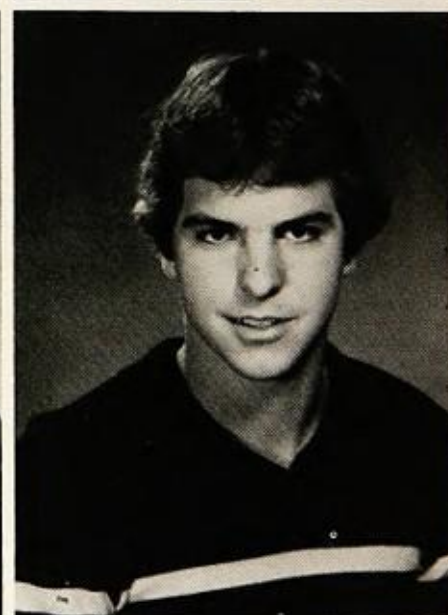

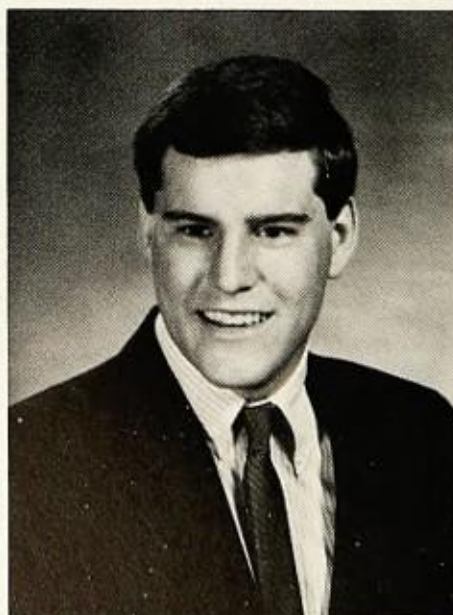

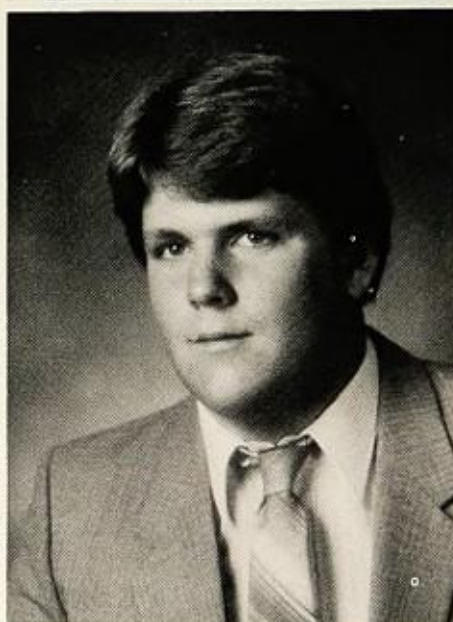

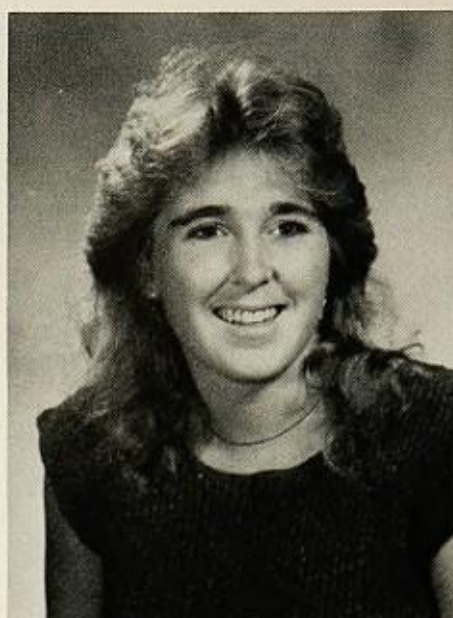

Students who took Child Growth and Development were required to work with the children. This included days when the students taught the children, usually with a lesson that complimented the time of year. Also for this course, the students spent time observing one certain child. Evaluations were done by the students, based on these observations and they were given to the children's parents.

Xavier Roberts' newest

Everyone had gotten used to seeing Cabbage Patch Kids in all places that children could take them. Therefore, most people didn't give the dolls a second look. But, wait a minute, if no two kids are alike, then why did those two dolls look . . . almost like . . . could they have been . . . twins? They were, because the Cabbage Patch was blooming with its newest addition, twins. The two dolls, dressed alike, came in one big package, complete with birth certificates for both.

Since their parents were often away, Cabbage Patch Kids had their own teddy bear, a Furskin, to provide them with the security that they needed while they were alone. These furry creatures were there for the kids to lean on or cuddle with when they felt frightened or lonely. Every kid needed a friend like that.

Guys in the kitchen ???

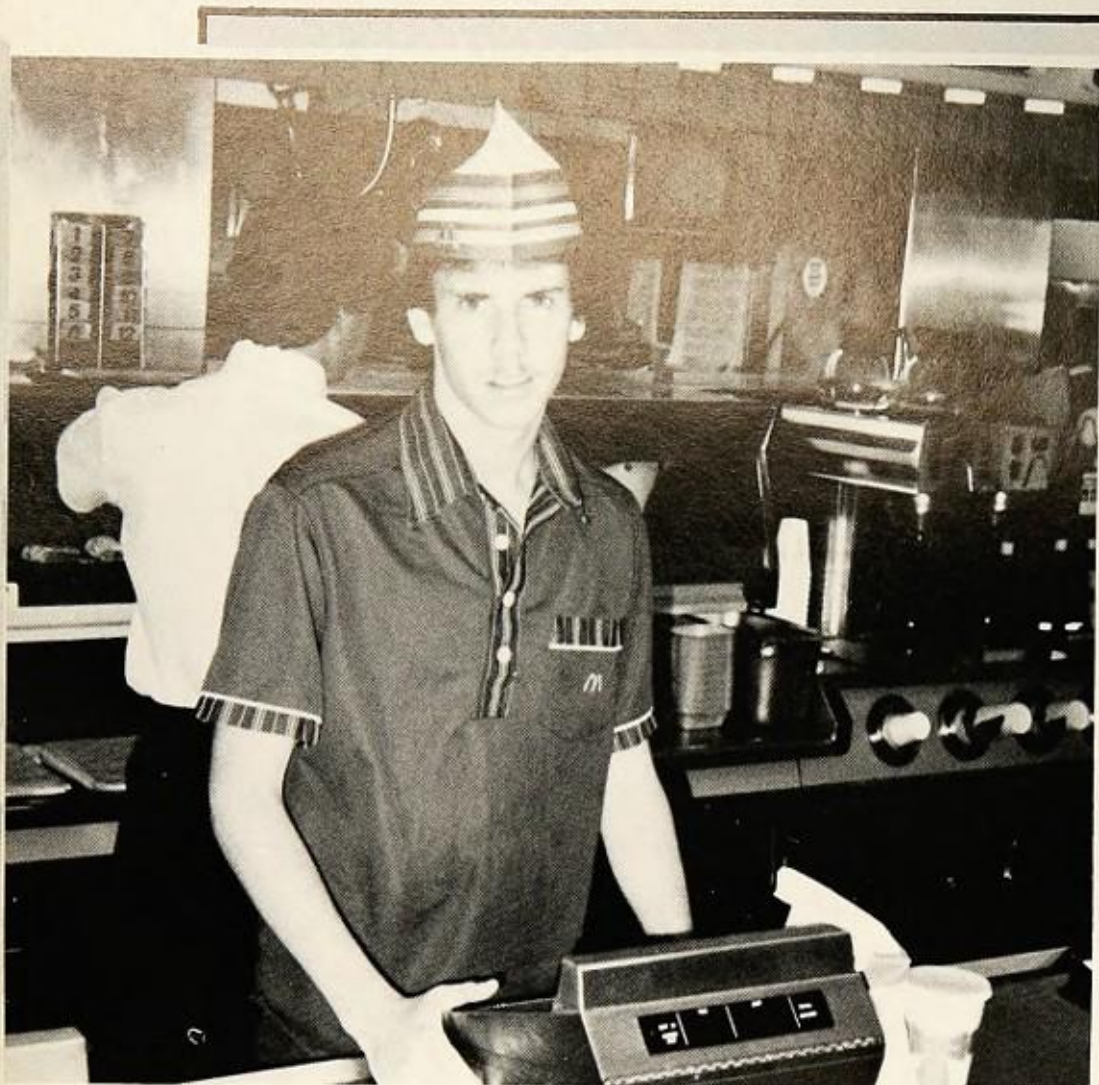

The old wives' tale was that women belonged in the kitchen, but now Southington High School has its own Independent Living Class where even males participated in making their own gourmet delights.

In this class, which was only open to seniors, students learned to cook and sew, everything from aprons to pizza.

This very valuable class was taught for one-half year and was open to any senior student who was interested in learning the basics of living independently.

This course was good for any student planning on going to college or living on his own after high school.

In this picture, Dave Alfano and Jim Mulrooney utilize their cooking skills by making delicious apple fritters that could be smelled throughout the hallways of Southington High School.

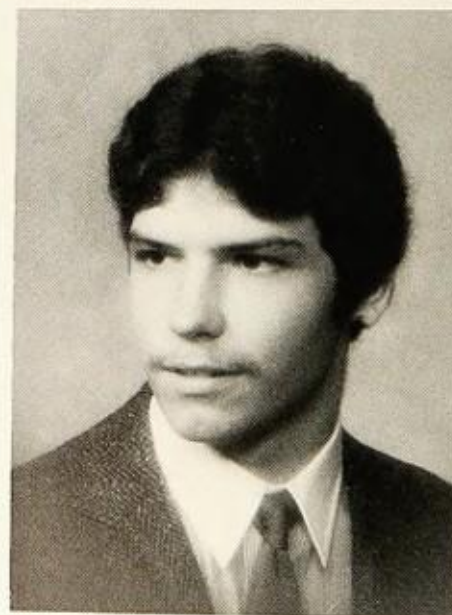

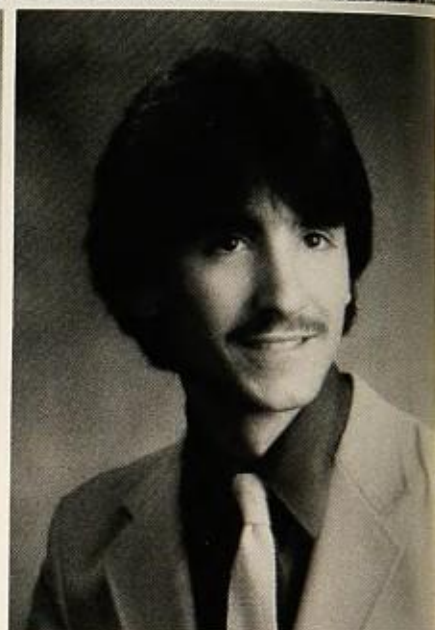

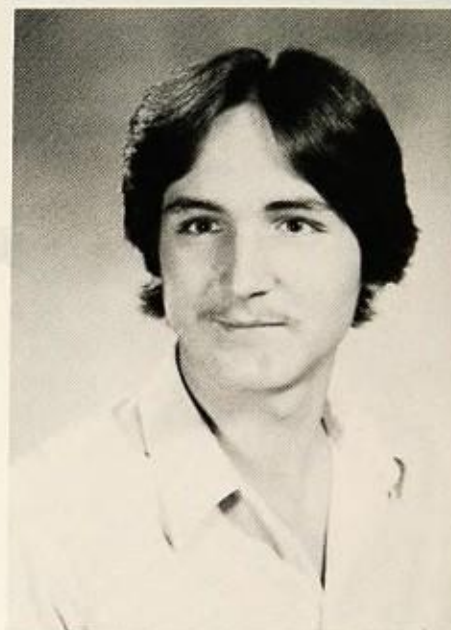

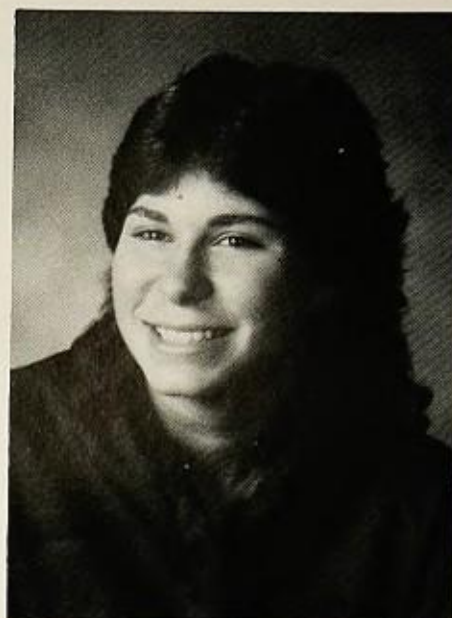

After school rat race

What was the most important day of the week? Some said Monday because football or baseball was on T.V. Others said Saturday because that was when they could sleep late. For those with part-time jobs, most would say payday; that one day of the week when you visit the bank to cash a check.

Ringin' registers, serving food, answering phones, changing beds, typing memos, and stocking shelves were all potential sources of this part-time pay check.

Although no SHS student had made his first million prior to graduation, these jobs offered a wealth of experience that could be taken beyond graduation. Also, the various jobs that high school students had often helped them in getting ideas for possible college majors.

Music trends in '86

The music of the 1985 school year began with the introduction of many new artists and the return of some old artists. Movies from the summer and early fall dictated many of the hits of the year. New artists such as Whitney Houston and "Aha" took the charts by storm. Other premier artists consisted of "Mr. Mister" and "Climax".

Some older groups and solo artists continuing their success were Bryan Adams, Billy Joel, and "Tears for Fears".

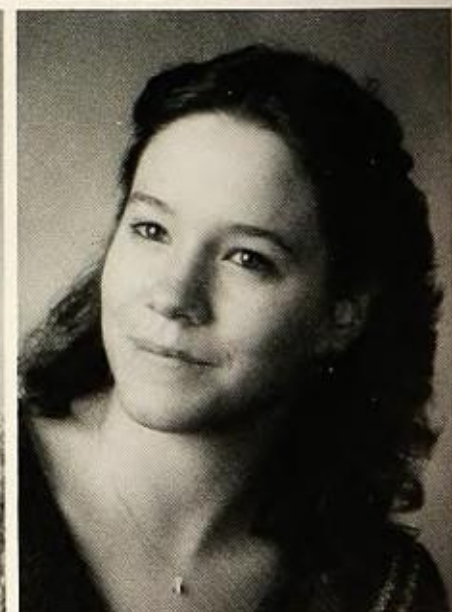

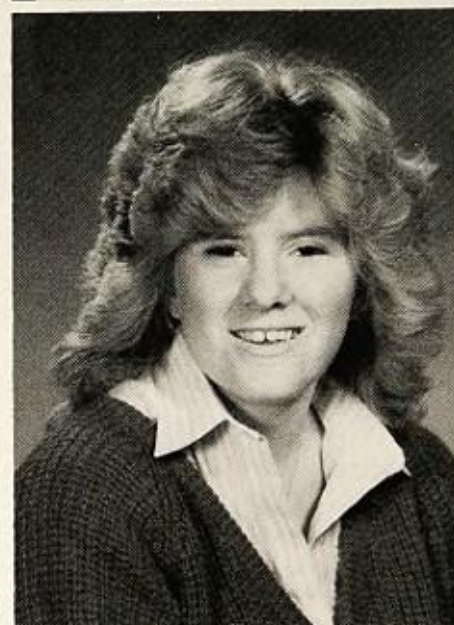

Movie hits really made a scene on the music charts. "Beverly Hills Cop" produced everyone's favorite, "Axel F" and "The Heat Is On" while "Back to the Future" brought back Huey Lewis and the News with "Power of Love" and "Back in Time". "St. Elmo's Fire" brought David Foster into the music scene with the love theme from "St. Elmo's Fire" and John Parr with "Man In Motion". Just remember, "If it's too loud, you're too old!"

Ransom for eggs?

As a continuing requirement of the Child Growth and Development class, raw eggs were given out to each student. The symbolism of these eggs was for the student to treat it as though it were his/her baby. The eggs were to be taken to school and work, shopping, and even on dates with the students. Wherever the student went, the "baby" was supposed to go with him/her. But, if this posed a major problem, the students simply called upon their parents or the "baby's grandparents" to babysit.

If the eggs somehow got broken, funerals were held, but a big problem this year was the dilemma of "egg-napping". Ransom amounts were set and the parents had to pay ... or else!

Doodling or vandalism?

Upon occasion, students found themselves in a classroom where the teacher was rambling on in what seemed to be some incomprehensible foreign language. At this time, the students' minds could not help but wander onto more pleasant thoughts in order to pass the time. In which case, so did their pens. Suddenly, their desks were being designed with the names of famous rock stars, actors, comic strips, history eras, boyfriends and girlfriends. Sometimes in a class that was perpetually unfulfilling, some "juicy" soap operas or even "firey wars" began to develop between students of different classes who share desks.

The majority of this vandalism was harmless. It provided "comic relief" to other students who happened to glance down at their desks and eased the anxieties of the "artist". Yet, some of these sagas could lead to more serious happenings. Girls threatened to kill other girls over a "superman" boyfriend. Obscenities were etched about other students, religions, and races; or sometimes just general filth swarmed the desk tops. In all actuality, although sometimes amusing, the detrimental effects to school property and people's feelings should have been taken into consideration. However, for those who found it absolutely irresistible to doodle, at least doodle with discretion.

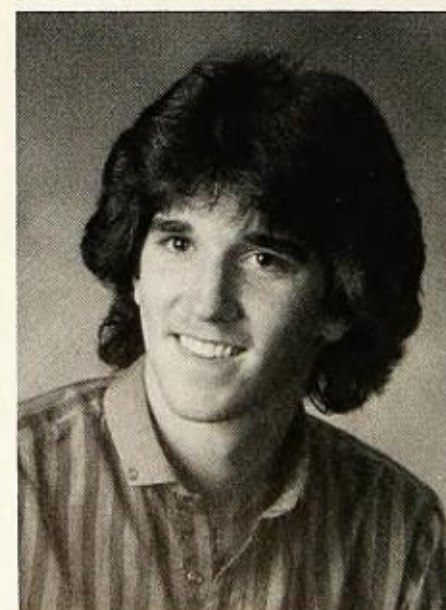

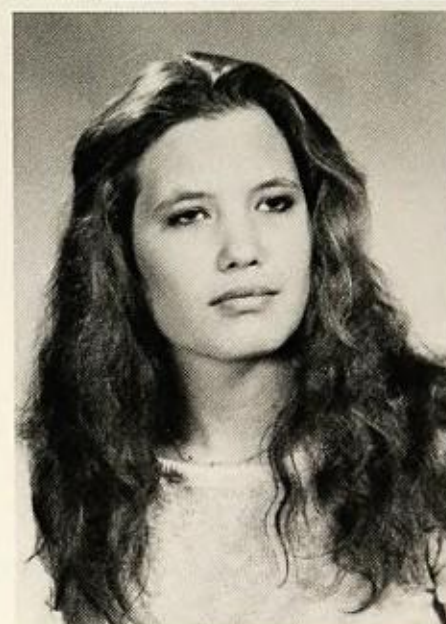

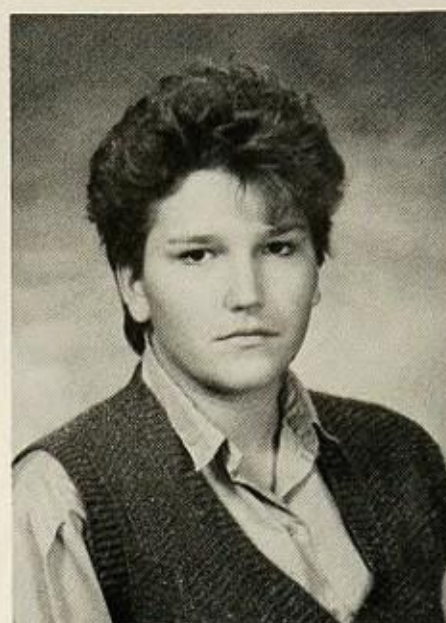

Where is the snow?

Raindrops kept falling on our heads! That was what students repeatedly said over the winter of 1985-1986. And they had plenty of reason for this! Every time the weathermen predicted lots of snow, all we ended up getting was rain; yet not even enough to cure the water shortage.

Many of our Southington skiers were getting impatient with the weather reports. Mt. Southington was losing business and began wondering if it would ever get cold enough to make snow.

Finally, the temperatures dropped into the twenties and below — just long enough for the ski areas to get good solid bases on their slopes. But, somehow the temperatures always managed to rise enough to melt them away! Maybe the theory of the hemisphere change is correct after all!

Leadership may change . . .
But The Spirit Stays The Same

Strong bonds of friendship will last forever.

The past three years we have spent together at Southington High School have been filled with learning, enjoyment, and memories. We entered our sophomore year as individuals and developed strong bonds of friendship, many of which will last forever. We have had both good and bad times, all from which we have grown and become closer.

During your future years, look back and remember your experiences at Southington High School. Even though many of us will venture our separate ways, we will remain in each others hearts and memories. We should all be very proud to be members of the Class of 1986 — for we have achieved much.

I wish you all the very best of luck in the future challenges that you will encounter. I hope you all achieve your desired goals. Remember that success is happiness, not wealth. Thank you for all you have given me, I will never forget the friends and teachers who have made these years memorable. Good Luck and God Bless.

Love,

Scott Berg

Our junior year began with a few changes in leadership. Back (l-r): Colleen Callahan (secretary), Sue Hannigan (secretary), Hope Ursini (treasurer), Standing (l-r): Mrs. Cathee Hayner (adviser), Loryn Lindquist (treasurer), Carol Toffolon (vice-president), and Mr. Ed Feeney (adviser). Sitting: Kerry Andrews (president).

Like every new school year, many changes were brought on—new classes, teachers, faces, and class officers. Over the years, the Class of 1986 was fortunate to have had officers who were enthusiastic and willing to take on the responsibility of being in charge of the senior class. These students have spent a great deal of time planning, organizing, and following through on class activities.

It was said that our panel of officers had grown, not only in size, but also in knowledge as to the workings of our senior class.

The Junior Prom will be . . .

The Class of 1987's Junior Prom took place on November 17, 1985, and was an event that will be remembered "forever." The night full of excitement and dancing was held at the high school and it was the beginning of all the fun-filled events that the class would have to look forward to as seniors. It was the biggest event of the junior year.

With seating arrangements already made, the couples entered the cafeteria which had been magically decorated for the big event. A mug and wine glass were set for each couple, as a memory of the prom. Refreshments were provided and a D.J. provided the music. The theme was previously chosen by the students: "Forever" by Kenny Loggins

A night remembered "Forever."

The students had awaited this event for a long time, and when the day arrived it brought some troubled weather. Saturday afternoon brought snow and sleet, an unwelcome and unexpected intruder within the festivities. Despite the cold and bad weather, the students had a good time dancing and being with their friends. Pictures were taken by T.D. Brown to make the memories last longer. The Junior Prom showed the Class of 1987 at its best, enjoying the magic night.

The hardest year of your life

The juniors were not only a class but a strong unit with similar feelings about SHS. One junior said, "The teachers and school are really great—the rules get tough sometimes, but I guess that's just part of the game." Another junior girl stated that "the work was hectic and sometimes the pressure can seem too much, but I've become a better person because of it." Most felt that the year was difficult, but one junior boy said, "I've been told that the junior year of high school is the hardest year of your life . . . it's true."

Sophomore's Successful Drive

The Class of 1988, this past year's sophomores, did a fantastic job on their magazine drive, which lasted from November 6 to November 20, 1985. The class raised a grand total of $28,053.00. The magazine drive was the first fundraiser held by the sophomore class.

Every year, the incoming class of sophomores tried to raise more money than the class before them. The class of 1988 did just that. They managed to raise $2599.00 more than the class of 1987, but they were more than $1000 short of the seniors of 1986. The sophomore class did a great job with their magazine drive.

Sophomores learn the ropes

As we began our year as seniors, others began theirs as sophomores. The sophomores of 1985-86 were no different than those of any other year. Although they were glad to finally get to high school, most were a bit worried about what high school would be like. The majority of sophomores worried about getting lost in a school much bigger than the junior highs and about getting new teachers whom they felt would be much harder than their old ones. Of course, the biggest fear for all sophomores was the seniors. Since sophomores belonged to the lowest class, they provided a good target for the superiority of the seniors.

Overall, the sophomores had a favorable reaction to high school.

Enthusiasm, energy, and high spirits.*

The Class of 1988 proved to be an energetic one, and this vigor was displayed not only through the sophomore class itself, but through the class officers and their advisors. The six officers and two advisors were a dynamic bunch as they worked together to organize class activities and functions.

The sophomore officers weren't the only ones new to Southington High. Their courageous advisors were also both new to SHS, not to teaching itself, just to the high school. Yet, these two enthusiastic women proceeded to take on the job of class advisors.

The two advisors did not take on a one year commitment to the incoming class, but a three year one. They will help the class fundraise and plan activities through the graduation of the class of 1988.

The sophomore class must learn to join forces as one class after coming from three junior high schools. Those who helped to unite these students as one class are: Miss Conway and Mrs. Carmody, advisors; Front (l to r): Debbie Dion, treasurer; Natalie Woodman, vice-president; Heather Kappell, treasurer; Back (l to r): Nancy Hannigan, secretary; John Carmody, president; Paige Riddle, secretary.

The Class of 1987 had six, eager officers and two fearless, supporting advisors to lead them through their junior year at SHS. Not only did the class hold its usual number of activities, such as flower sales, dances, and candy sales, but it also made a few changes in the typical agenda for each class. For example, the junior class officers and advisors presented to the school the production of "Grease" as the junior play and decided to do a talent show in their senior year.

These six students and their advisors kept quite busy running the class. The officers soon learned the definition of what it meant to be responsible, reliable, and active. But, this group of juniors enjoyed their positions and worked well with their advisors. They also discovered what it meant to combine business with pleasure.

Below: Most teachers are actors underneath it all. Mrs. Wallace performs with Sue Leach in front of British Literature class.

English Head Receives Degree

Mrs. Wallace, an English teacher at Southington High School, has been attending the University of Connecticut to receive her doctorate degree. During the second semester, she will be on sabbatical and will receive a P.H.D. for curriculum and instruction on August 3, 1986.

Originally, she did not wish to pursue a career in teaching because she thought the occupation to be stressful. However, after discovering her love for children, she began an eight year education at Central Connecticut.

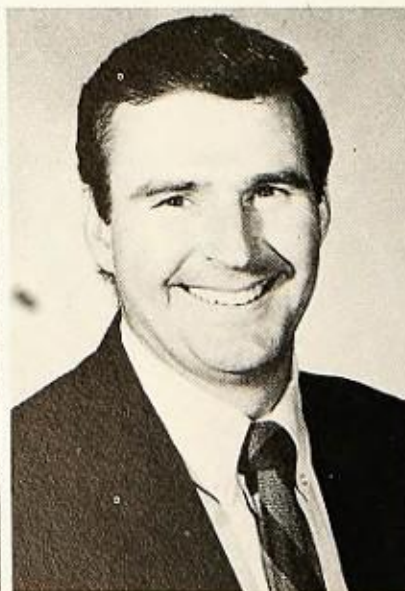

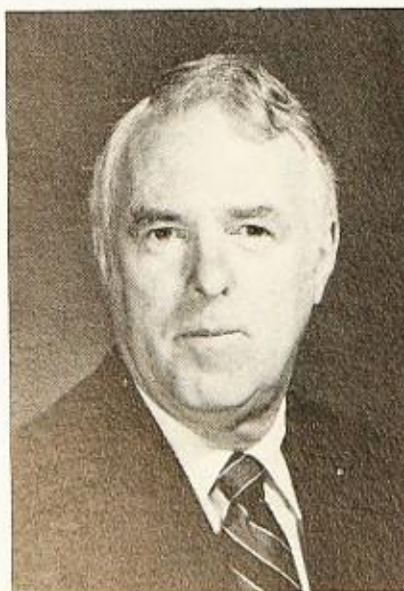

Two main ingredients for creating a teacher are "a love for children and knowledge". With this combination the rewards of teaching are perpetual. The greatest gratification is knowing she helped develop a mind. For when the student graduates, he becomes "another ripple in the water from the drop of a pebble".

“We’ll Have To Play Requests Only ...

if it gets too loud,” says Mr. Berry in reference to the bands new music suite — lecture hall 301.

Due to the construction, period four and five bands were forced to take their practicing elsewhere. The only other room large enough to hold a group the size of the band was a lecture hall.

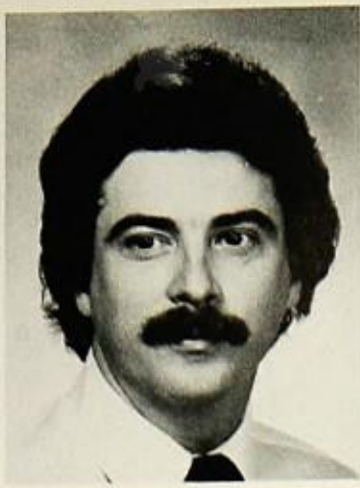

Although it was difficult for Mr. Berry and Mrs. Sileo at the time, the end result will certainly overshadow any present inconvenience.

Mr. Berry still liked to give guided tours of where the music hall will be, as he said, “next to the dirt pile.”

“A music program cannot be considered of high quality until it shows balance. A great marching band is not the sign of a great program. Southington High School can boast about two fine choruses, a Stage Band capable of making it into the finals of the prestigious Berklee College Jazz Festival, and an award-winning Wind Ensemble and Concert Band,” states the hard-working S.H.S. band director.

Musicians are known to live longer lives than most other people. Mrs. Sileo and Mr. Berry show two reasons why: enjoyment and enthusiasm of their profession.

Building And Faculty Grow

The 1985-1986 school year brought a variety of changes for its faculty. Due to construction, the bands at S.H.S. were forced to practice in a converted lecture hall, allowing period four and five classes on the upper floor to study and learn to music. Teachers, also, had to compete with the sounds of jack hammers and bulldozers as the construction continued.

The building addition, however, was not the only experience of growth and change; the faculty grew and changed as well. September brought some fine new teachers — new to teaching and new to the high school — and with them came new ideas.

We should all be thankful to have such dedicated educators — new and old — to guide us on.

Many new additions came to S.H.S.

Teachers Show Many Sides

Some active teachers display an interest in their students by participating in activities involving the extracurricular facet of high school life. Through this association both the student and teacher can learn from each other in ways that mere classroom discussion could not permit. Whether a teacher is a chaperone for a dance or a patriotic participant in Blue and White Day, the same message of caring for the interests of the student prevails. This willingness to communicate is a mutual step in the right direction that becomes the foundation upon which learning is based. Southington High School is fortunate to have developed this high level of comradeship and has gained a great deal of spirit because of its presence.

Every Teacher Has A Duty

Teachers, too, are subject to the doldrums of a daily routine in which minutes are segregated into slots of learning known as the "class period." To break this monotony, school administrators have devised a program which allows the teacher interaction with the student beyond the classroom. Each teacher is granted this refreshing opportunity in the forms of cafeteria, bus, and hall duties. With the close of a door the academic world is left behind and the real world begins. Students are at their energetic peak in such a liberal atmosphere, and other teachers are posed with intriguing problems not readily present in a classroom situation. With proper dosage such encounters allow many teachers to acquire an appreciation for the routine.

During the day, teachers share varied duties. Above: Pausing during hall duty, Mr. Piazza and Miss D'Angelo are pleased with the quiet atmosphere. Mr. Goodrow — A Missed Friend

Mr. Philip Goodrow, a social studies teacher here at S.H.S., passed away in the spring of 1985.

Mr. Goodrow had taught in the Southington School System for 31 years. During these 31 years, he developed a teaching style that became widely known by all his students, and also school faculty. He took a strict charge of his classes, placing a great responsibility on his students. Mr. Goodrow, by giving his students a sense of responsibility helped them gain confidence in themselves. By showing his friendship in his teaching style, Mr. Goodrow became a close friend to many of his students in their time of need. Often, he was found talking on a one to one basis with students concerning their personal problems.

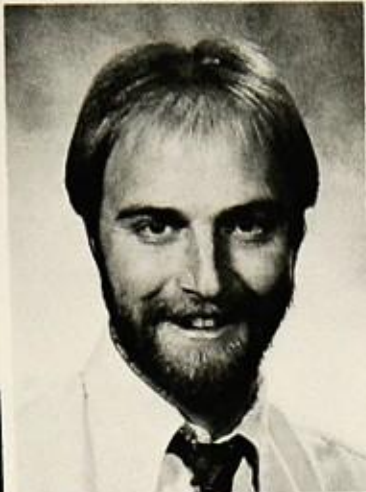

Mr. Goodrow was loved by all students and faculty here at S.H.S. For being a fine educator, a unique individual, and a friend and mentor to all, he will be greatly missed. Thank you, Mr. Goodrow, for showing your kindness and knowledge, you have been an inspiration to all.

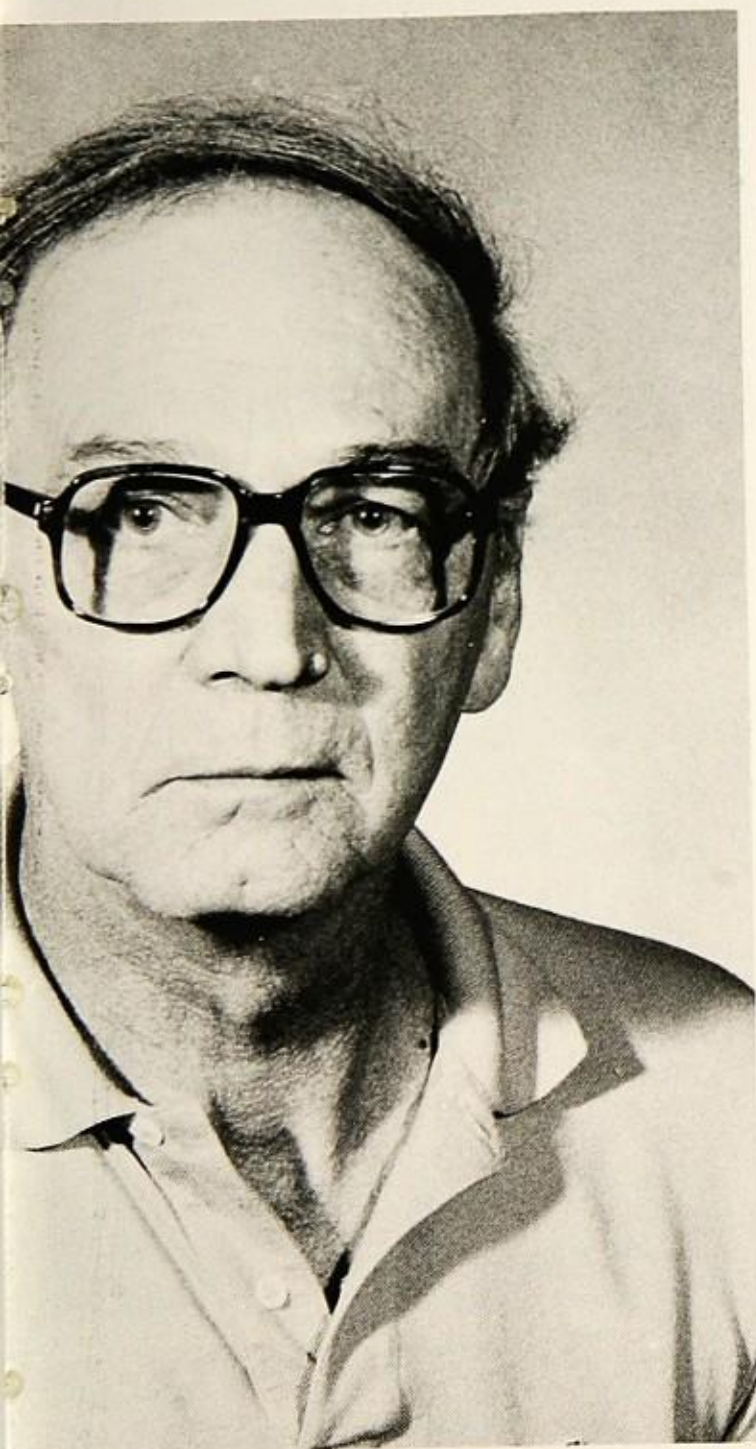

Mr. Goodrow devoted many hours in preparation and in teaching his students. His years of devotion and experience helped many.

ACADEMICS

Growing Through Practice And Study

Together, our minds have grown from the knowledge we have consumed at S.H.S. Our instructors have shared their patience and knowledge to make this growth occur. They have aided us in establishing a goal which compels us. Our high school education provided the seed which will blossom as we further our development.

Our teachers will be fondly remembered in years to come. For they are the farmers who have planted the seeds in the garden of eternal knowledge.

Above Left: Discussion of all types is an important part of the learning experience at ROPE. Tammy Bonomi and Jeff McIntyre join in the class talk. Right: As at the high school, students such as Dale Sylvia need to take a break now and then.

Bottom Right: Concentration is a must for math problems. Jim Buchanan works diligently on his problems. Top Right: Science projects further the understanding of students such as Marsha Grace who discusses a thesis with teacher Mrs. Schumann. But some students such as Art D'Agostino hope to gain learning from others' work.

Opportunities For Education Exist

Reaching Out to People Through Education (which is better known as ROPE) is a growing program for those Southington people, sixteen and over, that have left school but would still like the opportunity to receive a diploma. Enrolled in ROPE this year are 14 seniors, 18 juniors, and 7 sophomores.

The students must have the desire to learn and in turn are given the chance to join ROPE. They are offered courses in math, science, history, and English. Also offered are home economics, industrial arts, independent study, work experience, and work study.

The teachers involved with ROPE this year are Mrs. Jeanne Schumann, Ms. Gail Doerfler, Mr. Stephen Carpenter, and Mrs. Dorothy Fontana. They join together not only to give the students individual instruction, but to provide an atmosphere of acceptance and to give them a chance to express themselves freely.

Getting Prepared

The SAT's, although a source of anxiety to many students, are nonetheless required by many colleges. Mrs. Carmen Ludorf, an English teacher, has also taught the English section of the SAT preparation course. She advised anyone taking the SAT's not to become "over anxious". She said these tests are only one means to measure an applicant's abilities.

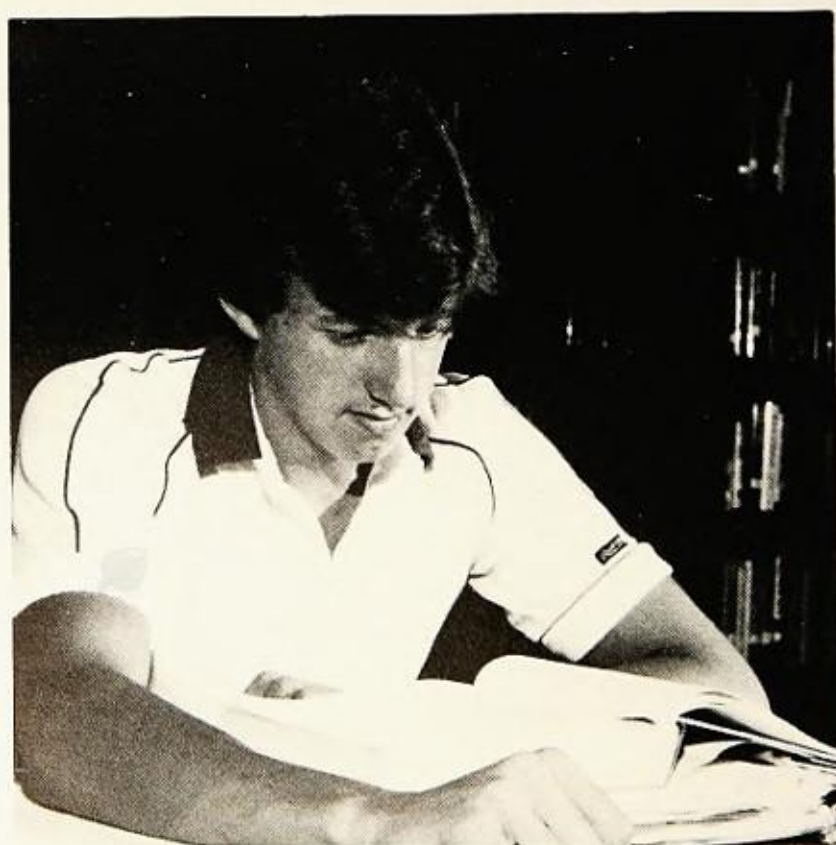

One of the best things an individual can do to prepare, Mrs. Ludorf suggested, is to take at least one year of Latin for the vocabulary section. Also, one should read more quality books, thinking about what has been read and trying to decide what the author's point is. Magazines like Newsweek can help build one's vocabulary, as can crossword puzzles and other word games. The night before the test, she warned, one should get a good night's sleep. One shouldn't rush in the morning, because it will make one nervous. A good breakfast is also important.

Mrs. Joan Wallace, the head of the English department, also had some good advice on the verbal section of the SAT's. She said, "The SAT's basically see how far you can stretch your mind." She believes preparation has to begin in grammar school. SAT preparation courses are a good idea, as they help make the SAT format more familiar. Mrs. Wallace agreed with Mrs. Ludorf that one should read more challenging literature rather than Harlequin romances.

Mrs. Nancy Garry had some helpful hints for the math section of the SAT. When preparing, the practice problems in the booklet provided upon request should be done. Southington High School also has Apple and Commodore computers with SAT preparation programs. "These," she said, "are especially worthwhile." Mrs. Garry also warned, "Don't be afraid to skip problems if they're going to take too long." Above all she said one should not guess. If an answer can be narrowed down to two or maybe three answers it might be worthwhile to take the chance. However, points are lost for a wrong answer, whereas, no points are lost or gained for a blank.

So for all students worrying about the SAT's — the faculty advice is: Don't! Relax, prepare carefully, and good luck!

Student Achievements

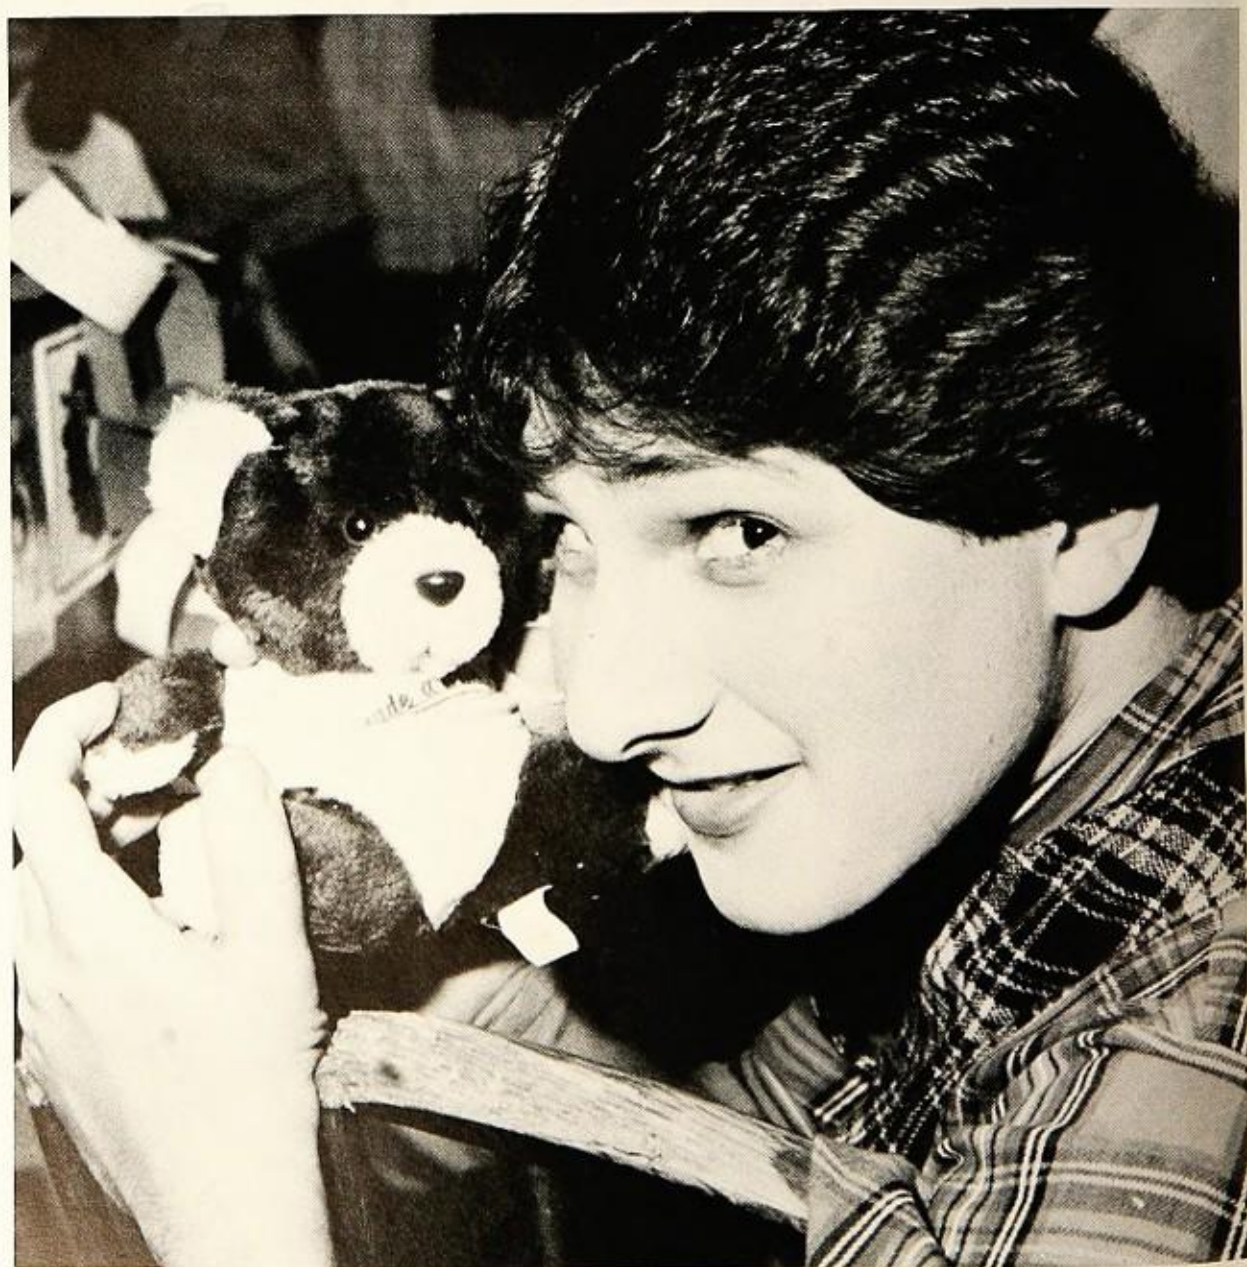

This year all students at Southington high grew and benefitted from achievements; however, a few put forth extra efforts and received special recognition.

Our Elks Club Students of the Month, achieved honor through their special contributions to the school. Scott Berg, October's student, grew through his service to the student body as senior class president.

Southington High received the honor of having two Merit Scholar finalists, Randy Heath and Amy Walsh. Hours of studying contributed to their recognition. As did hours of private lessons, practice, and listening help our own senior trumpeter, Ken Bell, to participate as a member of the McDonald's All-American Band.

STUDENT LIFE

Student life has only one brief meaning — the events in a student's life. This includes everything from the morning wake-up to the last thought of the next day before drifting off to sleep.

Life as a student means going to class, doing homework and working, but, more important, the ways to alleviate the frustrations of all these activities.

Thinking of ways to spend the weekends was not too hard for the SHS student because the activities were numerous. There was always a class car wash or dance to participate in. You could see a production by a class or go to one of the two proms that year.

Tall oaks from little acorns grow.

Battling buckets of water

Diligent workers of the class of 1986 spent Saturday, September 14, 1985, at a car wash to increase the funds for the class. Although the sun was shining, the combination of chilly air and cold water made the conditions difficult to bear. Some braved the weather with warm clothing, where as others wore traditional shorts to maintain the spirit of car washing. The workers were willing to meet any challenge including a tractor trailer truck which they washed with team effort.

The efforts for advertising the event were performed by a few brave members of the group who carried signs on Queen Street. This attempt attracted several cars, therefore, making the car wash a success.

Aside from the exertion of washing cars, everyone enjoyed themselves to some extreme. Soapy sponges were found to be pushed in unexpected faces. Let's not forget those water hoses that were easy to lose control of and sprayed that person that was so parched from the sun. Between the hours of eleven and four, the activities ranged from washing cars to battles with buckets of soapy water and flying sponges.

With the combined efforts of the members of the class of 1986, rewards were gained and enthusiasm progressed as events such as the car wash occurred.

A royal night to remember.

On November 8, 1985, the Gridiron Club (which backs and supports the football team) sponsored a Homecoming Dance in the S.H.S. cafeteria from 7:30 until 10:30 p.m. The dance was a semi-formal which was held to get the fall sports season off to a good start.

At the dance, the Homecoming Queen and her escort were also chosen. This past year, Kacy Palmieri, an attractive senior, was chosen to reign as Homecoming Queen. Her court consisted of five young ladies — three seniors, one junior, and one sophomore. Every candidate for the position of queen and her court were required to be escorted to the dance by a member of the football team.

Everyone at the dance looked sharp, all dressed up and thoroughly enjoying themselves. The excitement of the evening and thoughts of the upcoming sports seasons wore off onto each student who attended this evening event. The glowing faces and shining smiles of everyone present were clear indications of the common amusement among all.

The dance preceded the homecoming football game where the Queen and her court were introduced to the awaiting crowd. This particular game was played between the Southington and West Haven football teams.

All candidates for the positions of queen and her court had plenty to smile about at the dance (below).

The Queen and her court were full of joy and excitement, which was obvious from their many smiles and happy faces (far left).

Papa, portrayed by Joe Carrier, was in his cap with a look of surprise of his face (shown right).

Chris Gormley had just enough time to scowl for a photographer before portraying Ebenezer Scrooge in front of an eagerly awaiting crowd.

To teach us the real meaning

Every year, the senior class stages a play showing their talent, not only to perform as an entire class, but to show their individual talent. This year the senior class chose to portray a story they grew up with, the main character they loved, hated, and could learn a lesson from.

"A Christmas Carol", preceded by a short play of "Twas the Night Before Christmas", took place at the Bicentennial Auditorium on Friday, December 13 and Saturday, December 14, 1985.

Students practiced continuously for three weeks before the play, rehearsing lines and staying after school. Dress rehearsals took up a lot of their spare time lasting until ten the night before the play. The hard work and time spent showed a job well done.

As everyone knows, this year's senior class was different from others. Therefore they changed parts of the play to make it compatible with the '80's.

Scrooge, played by Chris Gormley, taught us the real meaning of the holiday season. His visits from the three spirits taught us to remember and appreciate the past, be aware of the present and look forward to the future.

Music to move

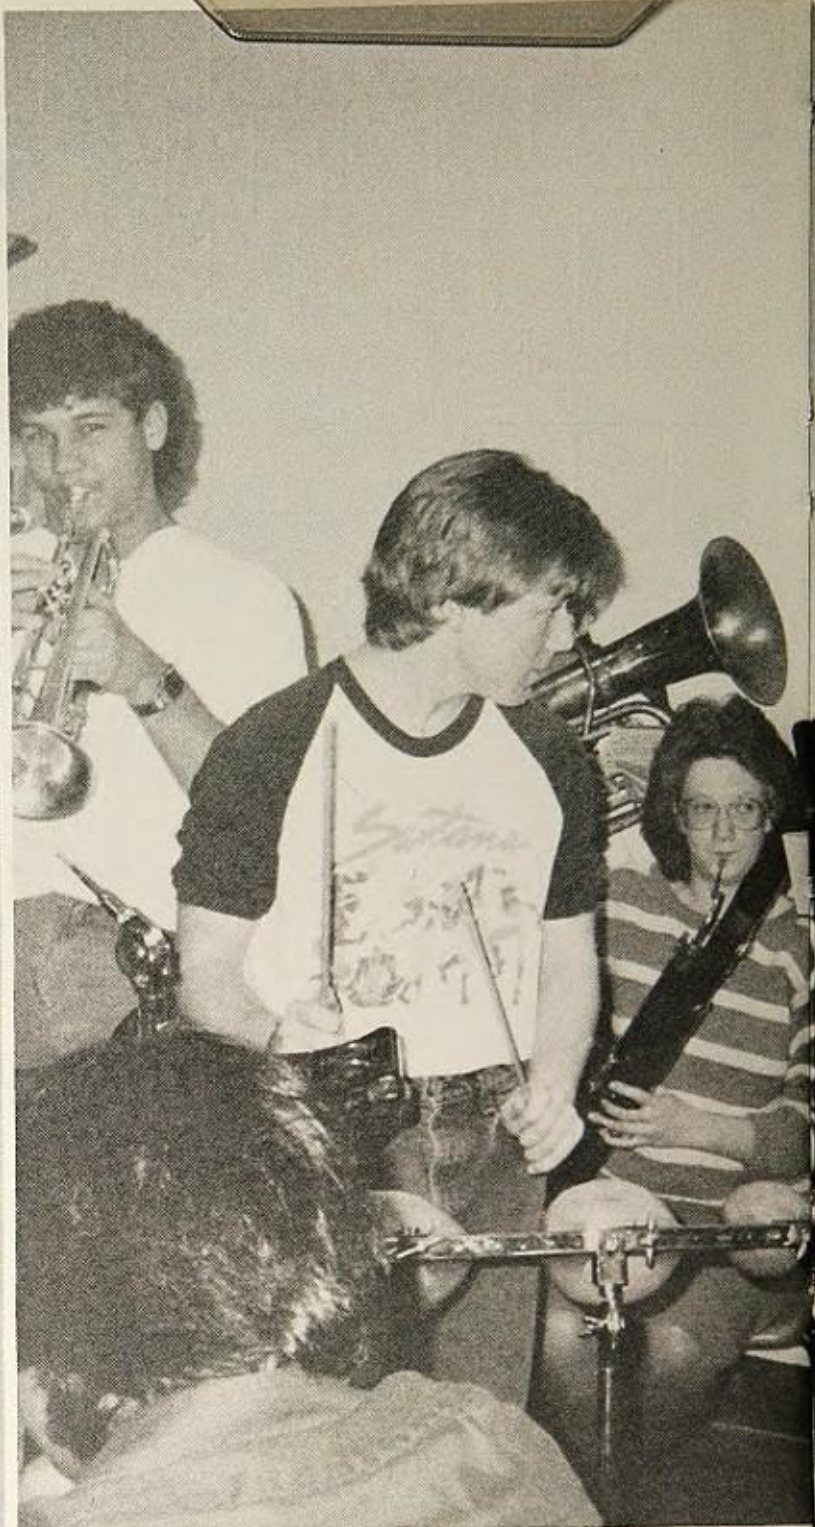

When frustrated minds combine the thoughts of pressures imposed by upcoming tests, minds stray to find relaxation. Humming and fingertapping to a favorite tune is usually the most apparent form of escape. Our nerves made our pencils dance across the tests and provided the rhythm for the songs playing in our heads.

The spirit that echoed through the walls of Southington High School was that of music from the lively band. The vivacious members aroused a feeling of enthusiasm that kept us dancing through our years of high school. At football games, the marching band performed to arouse enthusiasm among the crowd. The Christmas spirit was shown by the band when a small group of musicians engaged in an effort to display the joys of the seasonal music.

Although not all music shared with us was from our band, we enjoyed the records at dances and the live bands at proms.

Each of us had our favorite song that held memories of high school life, whether they were prom themes or a song heard when sharing a moment with a friend. Our memories have been captured in the music with which we have grown.

Vivek Nigam and Peggy Albee swing to the beat of a familiar song at one of the many SHS dances.

Special heaven

The class of 1986's Jr. Prom took place on Saturday, November 17, 1984. Everyone was there with a smiling face and an array of color. This night will stand in most hearts as the first "big night" of a lifetime. Having a young Romeo in a tuxedo bring you flowers and pick you up in dad's car for a memorable night of dinner and dancing was enough to have any Juliet ecstatic for weeks in advance. Live entertainment for the dance was provided by the "Hartford".

Walking into the cafe would enlighten anyone's heart. The cafeteria had been transformed into a heavenly place which was fit for young couples in love. The prom theme was the song "Heaven" by Bryan Adams. Wall scenery of stars and clouds made of cotton was used to create the perfect mood of romance. A large ice sculpture of two kissing doves located at the front of the cafeteria was an ideal setting for picture taking. The couples were given their favors at the door. The boys received large glass mugs and the girls champagne glasses which were embossed with a couple dancing in the moonlight and the prom theme. The class of 1986's Junior Prom was surely a night of elegance and happiness for everyone to remember.

As Peter Matthews and Jill Fongemie, Below, entered the school for the prom, Denny Stanek and Jill Pelrin, center left, were already moving to the music of "Hartford".

The prom was a place where many ear-to-ear grins were noticeable. Shown left, Jodie Sprague poses with Chris Gormley before entering into the prom festivities.

It took a great deal of work and effort, as well as people to put the prom together. Shown above are the students who successfully made the night as "heavenly" as possible.

All night long

March 29, 1985 was "All Night Long", the Class of 1986's Jr. Show. All kinds of talent was displayed as all members of the Class joined together on this night. Acts were formed early in February and the students signed up for times in the show at this point.

Periodically the groups would have to check in with Mrs. Cathee Hayner, (Class Advisor), to give her progress reports on their acts. The week before the show was the time for dress rehearsal and to see how well the show would fit together with the changing of sets and equipment. All talent was there from solos on voice and piano to comedy monologues and large impression groups. The spectators to this evening were enlivened with acts from "The Family Feud" to "Saturday Night Live". The "Blues Brothers" and "Mrs. Emily Litllia" made appearances along with the "Pointer Sisters".

The nervousness of that night set in early, and with news of the death of one of the class's favorite teachers Mr. Philip Goodrow it put a damper on the evening. The idea that he would have wanted us to go on and grow in spirit and life led the Class of 1986 to dedicate the show to him and the impact of his life on all of us. The Class spirit did grow and the event went on and was a great success.

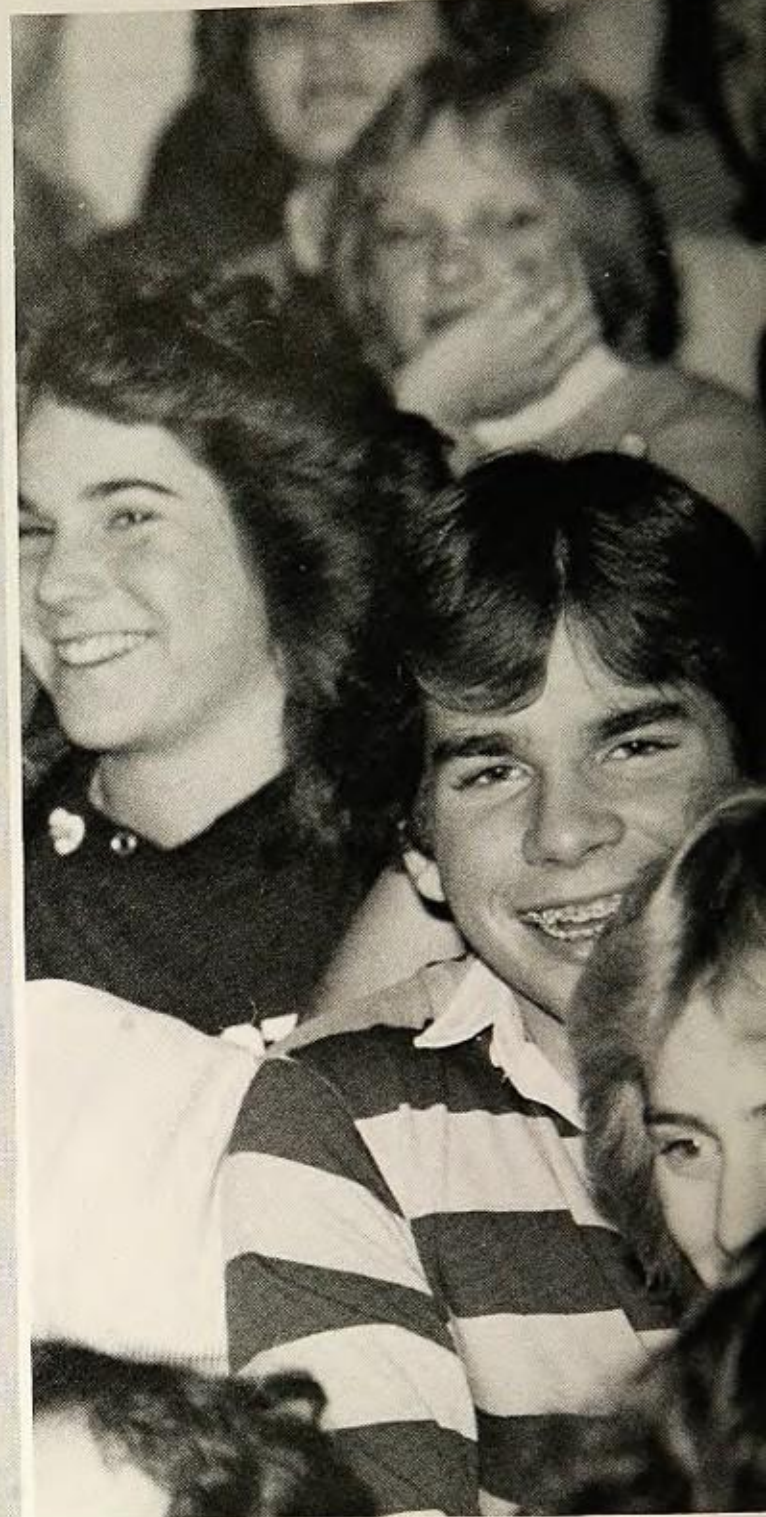

Dressed as Emily Litllia, Dawn Landino, left, does an act from "Saturday Night Live".

Rallied spirit

Pep rallies were an activity through which the senior class presented their ability to act as a team. Our first experience at a pep rally as sophomores was quite embarrassing to most of us. We were not aware of the happenings at a pep rally. We, as sophomores, had no signs, posters, confetti, or rallying emotion with which to compete with the other classes. As we were always told, you learn from experience. Our actions at pep rallies were just as rowdy and spirited as our competitors.

Spirit was one obvious trait of Southington High School that was quite readily visible to all who observed each and every senior at the school. The senior class came together as one for the first time at the magazine drive in September of 1983 as sophomores. At this event, the newly formed class displayed much enthusiasm through their interest in accomplishing the fundraising goal set for the class. The class reached this goal and stretched far beyond its set target.

Our maturity grew through our production of a fashion show where students modeled stylish clothing from various stores in the vicinity.

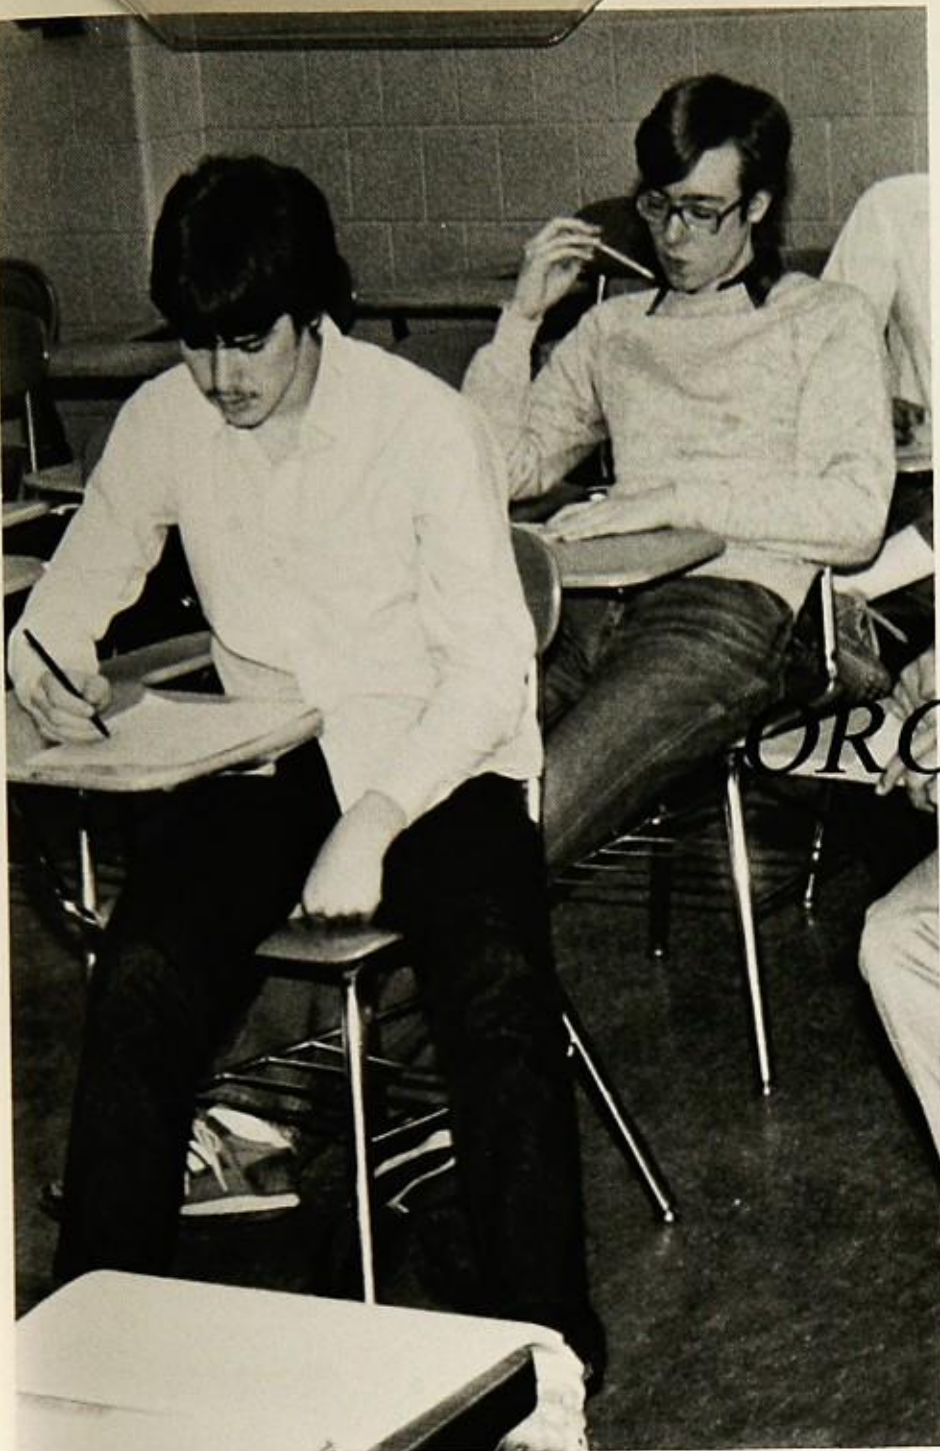

With each activity, the members of our class shared, we have grown both as a group and as individuals.

ORGANIZATIONS

Clubs and organizations are a large part of Southington High School. The clubs are building stones of a student's growth and learning. Students gain qualities such as confidence, leadership, management, and character. Partakers in a club or organization require the ability to work as a team and as an individual. Spirit grows throughout the groups as old friendships endure and new ones mature. The students rallied together for many school and community activities, which brought quiet enjoyment to all participants.

Emblem's Eighty-Eight Years

Welcome the new change in format

Since 1898, Southington High School students have been printing their school newspaper, the Emblem. The Emblem is published eight times a year to keep the student body and teachers informed and updated on the happenings in our school. The Emblem covers sports events, news, and the activities of Southington High School's numerous clubs. Also included in each edition is news of the high school addition and music world, information on future events, reviews, and advice.

In the fall of 1985, the Emblem changed its format to actual newspaper form, with a more professional appearance. The change was welcomed and praised as an admirable improvement in journalism for the 88-year-old newspaper.

Under the leadership of co-editor-in-chief A.J. Whalen, Sandy Cence, adviser Mrs. Mary Dapkins, and the dedication of all members, past and present, the Emblem became one of the exceptional attributes to the excellence of Southington High School.

Southington Bands Grow

While learning under the spotlights

Southington High School's concert band program had flourished under the direction of Mr. Keith Berry. In the four years since Mr. Berry's arrival, the Concert Band, Wind Ensemble, and Stage Band provided musical entertainment to the town of Southington at three annual concerts: the Holiday Concert, Winter Pops Concert, and Spring Concert.

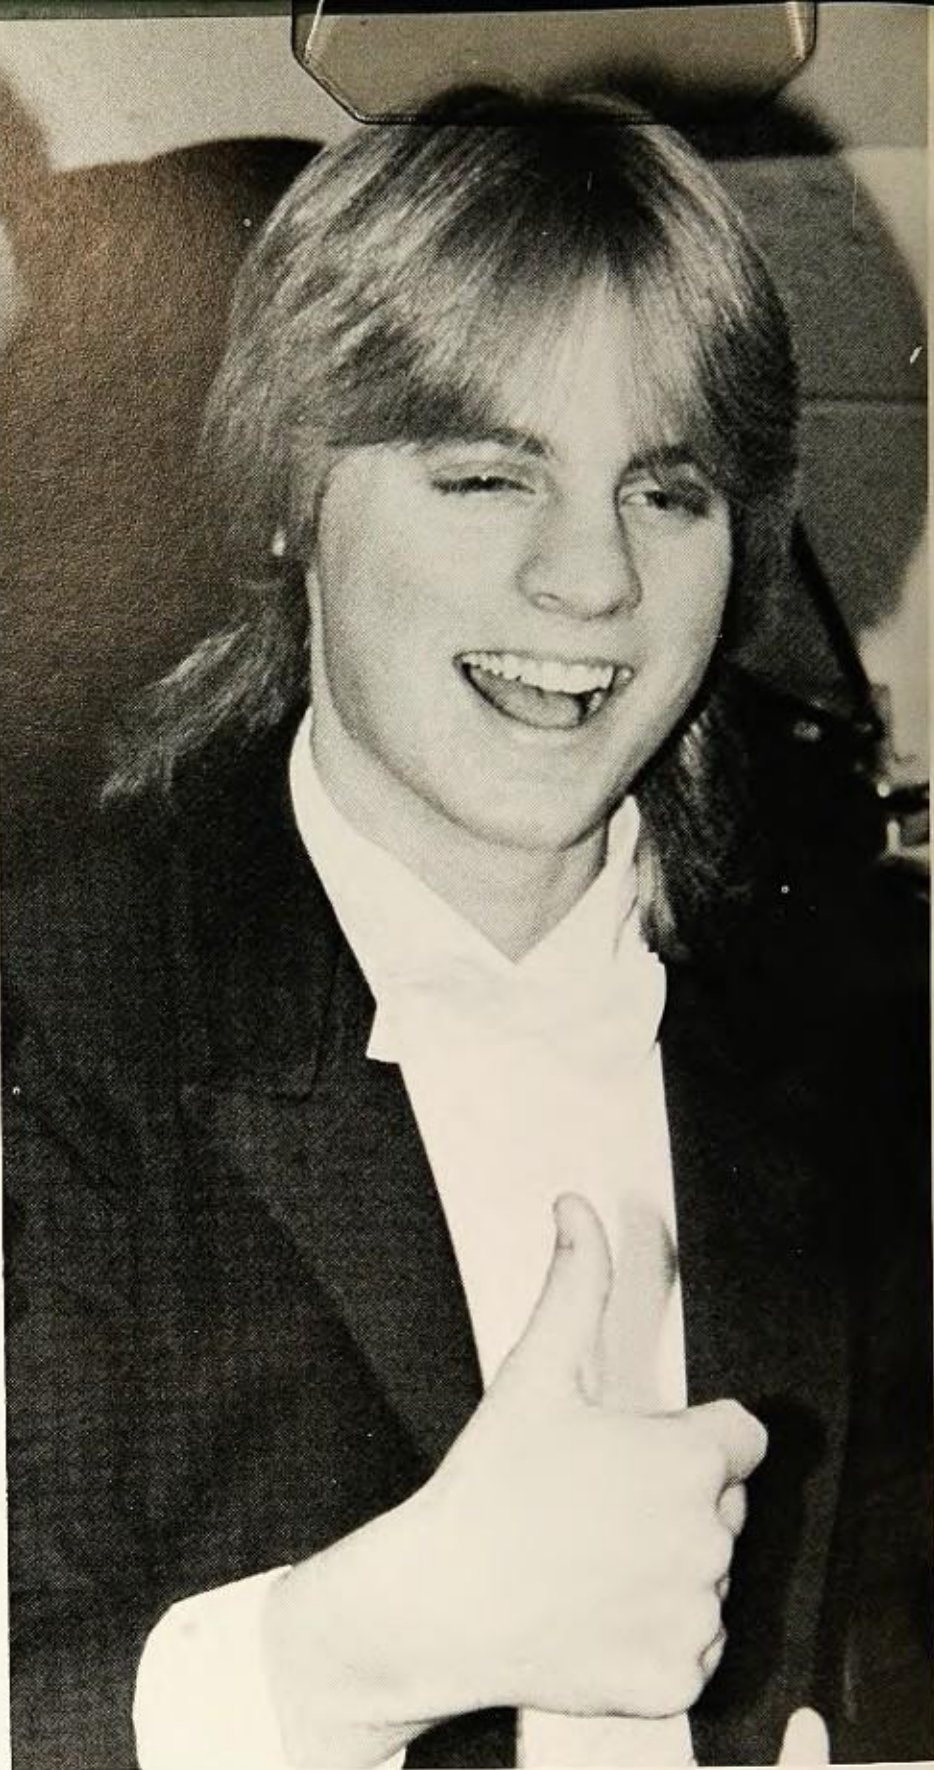

Originally, the only symphonic group at SHS was the Concert Band. However, recently there had been such an interest in the instrumental music program that the Concert Band divided into two factions: the Concert Band and Wind Ensemble. While both groups were made up of essentially the same instrumentation, the music differs in degree of difficulty. The Wind Ensemble was a smaller group playing higher grade music of level five and six. The Concert Band was a larger group which played grade four and five music. Both groups competed in large concert band competitions, such as the Montreal Festival of Music. This past Spring, the bands traveled to Washington D.C. for a major competition.

The Stage Band has long been a tradition at Southington High. This small group was composed of a select group of musicians who wished to concentrate on jazz and swing style music. They rehearsed every Thursday night and competed in many prestigious competitions, such as the Berkeley Jazz Festival.

All three bands were among the finest in the state, and Southington High School can be proud of its outstanding music program.

S.H.S. Choruses Growing

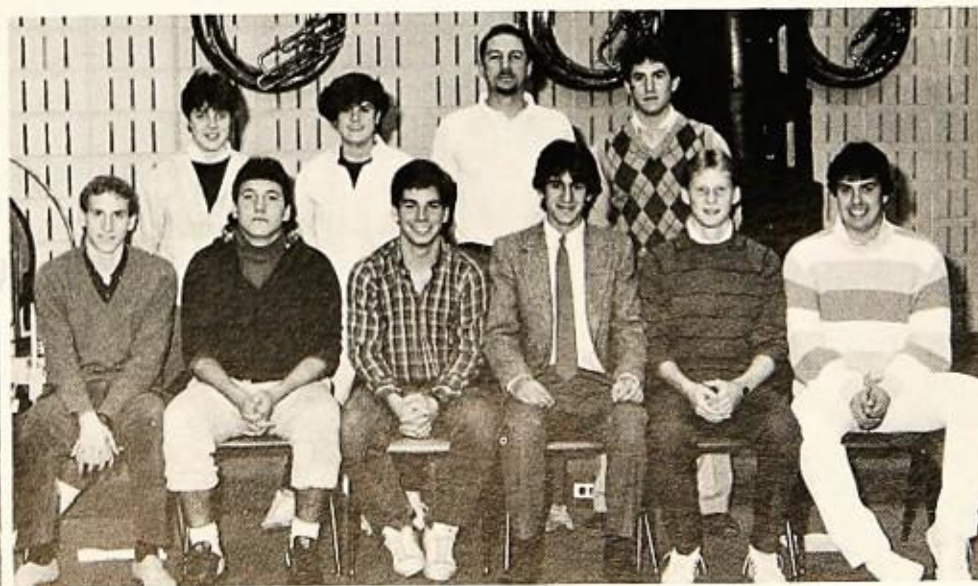

The Southington High Choruses were flourishing groups of young vocalists. Under the direction of Mrs. Lynn Sileo, the choruses reached greater levels of ability. Mrs. Sileo had to take a leave of absence to care for her new baby girl after the Choral Christmas Concert. Members looked forward to her return in the Fall of 1986. The Chorus and Concert Choir are again on the way up under the new direction of Mr. Mark Ryan. The Concert Choir sang the "National Anthem" in Shea Stadium, for the New York Mets in Spring of 1986. Also that season the Chorus gave a combined concert with the Southington Festival Choir on April 20th. Outside of the concerts that year the choruses went to New York to see a production of "Singing in the Rain."

S.H.S. Students Lead The Way While participating in activities

Southington High's three academic clubs, the National Honor Society, the Math Team, and the High School Bowl Team exemplified the school's academic abilities and achievements with justly earned pride.

The National Honor Society is sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals to honor students distinguished for scholarship, leadership, character, and service to school and community. The current advisor to NHS is

Ms. Kathleen McGrath. This year's officers were: Mike Kroese, president; vice-president, Lori Scaringe; secretary, Laura DiDonno; and Sue Mangiagli, treasurer. NHS members are responsible for the school's tutorial program, servicing the community by helping others attain their scholastic potentials.

Ms. Kathleen McGrath has also advised the High School Bowl team since its origin at SHS in 1984. The team competed in the televised "High School Bowl" in January, 1986. This Year's team was led by captain Chris Gormley. The team's goal was to promote academic interscholastic competition.

Miss Karin Krauland, a new teacher at SHS this year, was the adviser of this year's Math Team. The team commenced its competition in the 1985-86 school year after a rest in 1985. Like the High School Bowl team, the primary function of the Math team was to promote academic interscholastic competition. The team competed in monthly competitions around the state. This year's team was led by tri-captains Vivek Nigam, John Laliberte, and Harley Johnson.

Students Learn And Grow

Servicing the school and community

Key Club and Student Council were both very important parts of Southington High and the community. Through their services, students grow, and learn more about people and the ways of life.

Key Club's motto is "Caring — Our Way of Life"; this was demonstrated throughout the school year through various club activities. The four officers, president Kirsten Tienken, vice-president Glenn Michaud, secretary Lori Trojanowski, and treasurer Lisa Lee, with the help of adviser Miss Eleanor Aleksinas, arranged various activities that kept Key Club members industriously busy all year.

Serving both the school and community, Key Club collected money for UNICEF, walked in the annual town Crop Walk, and helped the Kiwanis with the apple ring booth during the Apple Harvest Festival. Another big event was the Toys for Tots drive held in December. Toys were collected, wrapped, and delivered to over 150 needy children in Southington. In school, Key Club members became "Secret Santas" during Christmas, giving all the teachers small gifts without revealing their identity until the end of the week. As the year progressed, they made cookies for teachers on Valentine's Day. Members are looking forward to the 25th anniversary banquet in March at the Aqua Turf. The next event to prepare for is the District Convention in April, held in Manchester, New Hampshire.

Key Club ended the year by sponsoring a flower sale and dance in May, attending Special Olympics and helping at graduation ceremonies.

Key Club, however, was not the only group to serve the school and community. Student Council, under adviser Miss Carol Cope, represented the student body to better the school with the ideas and needs of the students. The Student Council grew to be a vital service at SHS. Students contributed their suggestions through their representatives or the suggestion box. Members organized various senior activities. The Student Council aimed to maintain the traditions of SHS through democratic action.

One of the biggest annual events sponsored by Student Council was the Thanksgiving Food Drive. During this time, members collected canned and boxed foods from the student body and bought turkeys, so that families who would otherwise go hungry could enjoy a real feast in the true spirit of thanks.

With continuing excellence in leadership, pride, and hard work, the Student Council and Key Club will continue to service the school and community with care and success in years to come.

WIND ENSEMBLE

Liferoles Are Experienced

As clubs train students for future

Various organizations throughout the high school set out to train Southington students for future roles in life. Students could learn about business, teaching, marketing, and industry. The clubs educated the students by receiving actual training in their chosen field.

F.B.L.A., or Future Business Leaders of America, was a national vocational organization. Students grew in various ways; they learned how to communicate with others and how to get involved in business. Through involvement in various activities, students became prepared for a business career. Miss Davey is the adviser for F.B.L.A.

D.E.C.A., Distributive Education Club of America, is a program that teaches marketing, merchandising, and management. The school store is operated by students who are in D.E.C.A. Mr. Dennis Kelly and Mr. Richard Schreiner are advisers for the D.E.C.A. program.

Another program available at the high school is F.T.A.- Future Teachers of America. The members of the organization are all interested in pursuing a career in education. Mrs. Jerin, the club adviser, helped students with various functions. F.T.A. held a social for interested teachers and students, and visited colleges that offer teaching programs. Tutoring from F.T.A. members is also available.

Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, or V.I.C.A., is a club designed for industrial arts students. The students are involved in the actual cooperative work experience. Mr. Heath is the V.I.C.A. adviser.

F.F.A. Develops Character

As students learn agricultural skills

Future Farmers of America is a national organization aimed at developing agricultural skills, leadership, and cooperation. The F.F.A. is open to all high school students and freshmen with courses in animal science, plant biology, natural resources, and agricultural mechanics.

The F.F.A. program was first organized in the old Louis High School in 1935. The program currently is held behind Central Elementary under the direction of Mr. Richard Jones, Ms. Robin Lebrun, and Mr. Allan Fennner. With a new Vo-Ag center being constructed at Southington High School, members are hoping to be able to "move in" next year.

Vo-Ag students are involved in a variety of activities throughout the year. They raised their own chickens and pigs for banquets, grew poinsettias for Christmas, and sold wreaths during the holidays. The students designed and built their floats for the Apple Harvest Parade and made floral arrangements for organizations and clubs in the Southington school system.

The F.F.A. has come a long way since the days at Louis High. Their determination and commitment will continue to bring success in future years.

Editors Create Memories While Learning, Growing, And Having Fun

In June of 1985, the 1986 Chronicle Editors attended "Jostens publishing company's" workshops at Wesleyan University. From experiences such as this, the 1986 Chronicle grew beyond past books. Every year, the book's changes lead to further improvement in format. The 1986 Editors and staff spent countless hours of hard work and dedication leading to the success of this book. Miss Deborah A. Benjamin has given her unending knowledge and support to the editors, helping them meet their deadlines and giving them moral support. Editor-in-Chief Jill McKinnon stated, "It was a long, mind-boggling process knowing we were publishing a book which will serve as the school's memories of the class of 1986 forever."

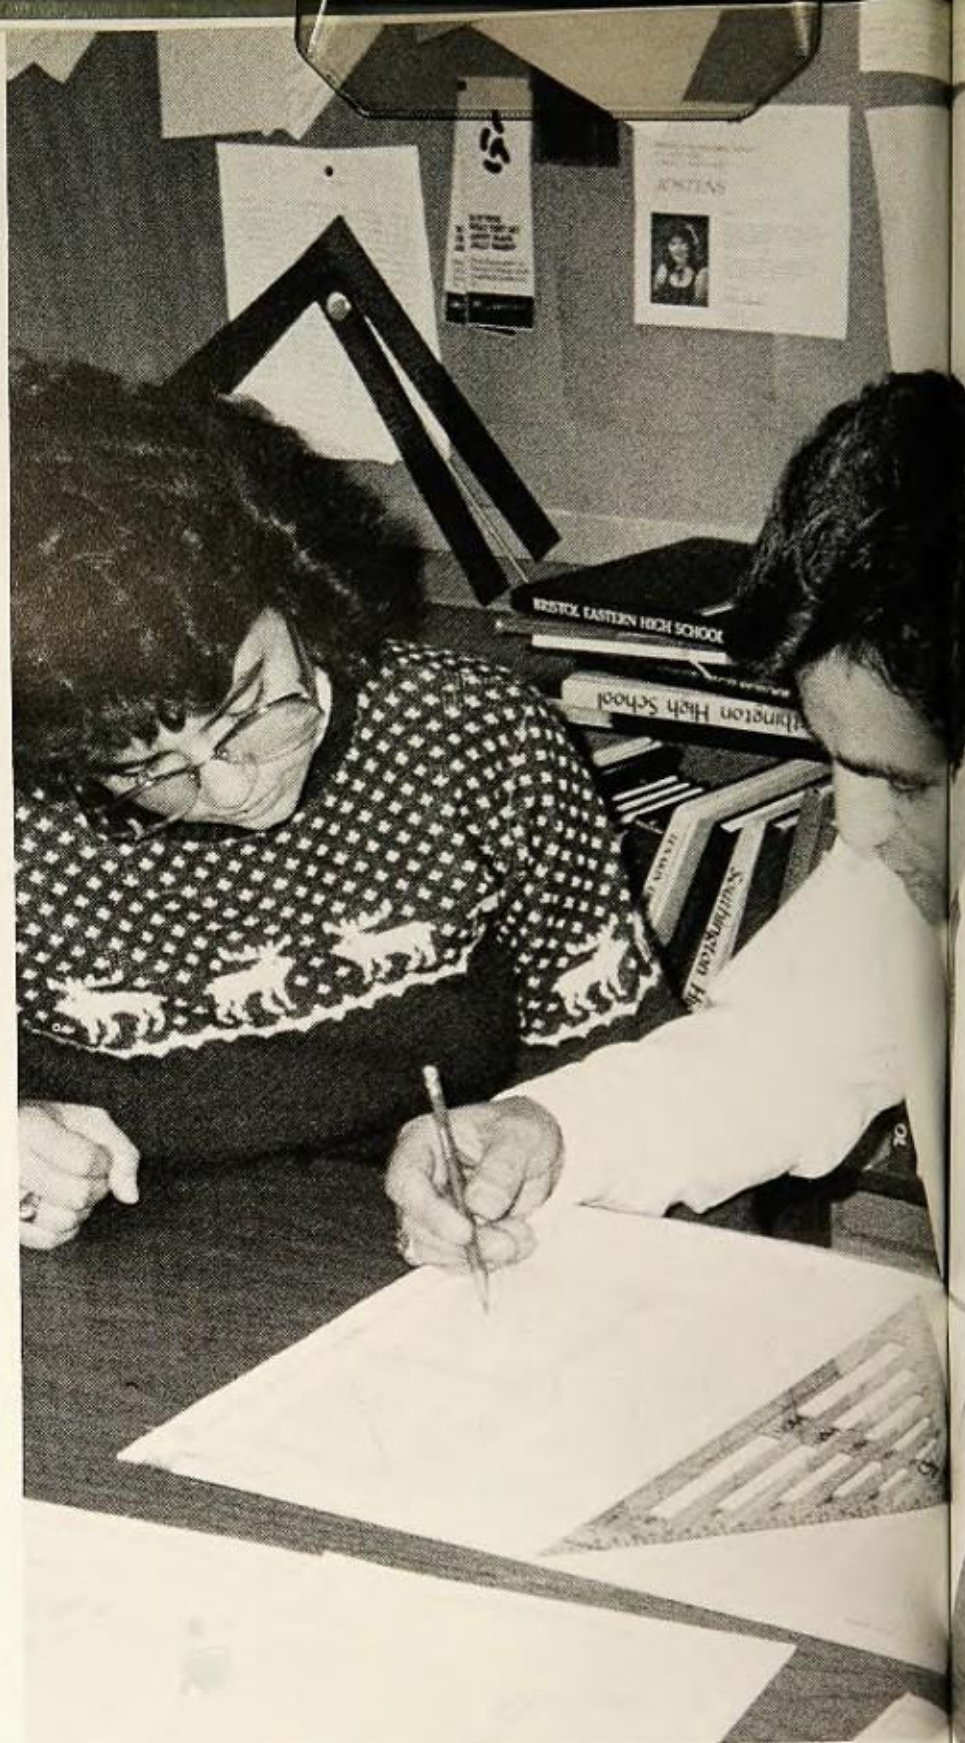

The editors were always looking for ways to improve the Chronicle that would benefit everyone. The faces editor included the under-class portraits in this year's book, which took much time and effort. "I never thought I would spend almost every day after school for weeks, working on the yearbook. When my layouts came due, it was not only after school, but before school in the mornings as well," stated Laura-Jean Spring, Faces Editor.

The business staff did a tremendous effort this year and raised more funds than ever before. This effort led the Chronicle to add an additional twenty-four pages to the book.

The 1986 Chronicle Editors have shown many outstanding qualities from leadership and spirit to organization and creativity, which will stay and benefit them in future life.

ATHLETICS

Teams Grow In Many Directions

Athletics is an important part of student life at S.H.S. The students dedication and commitment helps to make the teams successful. Coaches work many long hours to better the teams and assist the athletes so they may reach their goals.

The athletes themselves grow physically as well as mentally during the season. They must have the physical endurance to survive the long, hectic practices, under the ever watching eye of the coaching staff. The mental strength, to handle the pressures of juggling school work while keeping up their responsibility to the team, is also a must.

The athletes must learn to cooperate and work together to benefit the team.

Spirit Grows As Leaders Develop

Over the years, the spirit within the students has been increased thanks to the S.H.S. Marching Band, Band Front, and Cheerleaders. In the 1985 fall season these teams experienced various changes.

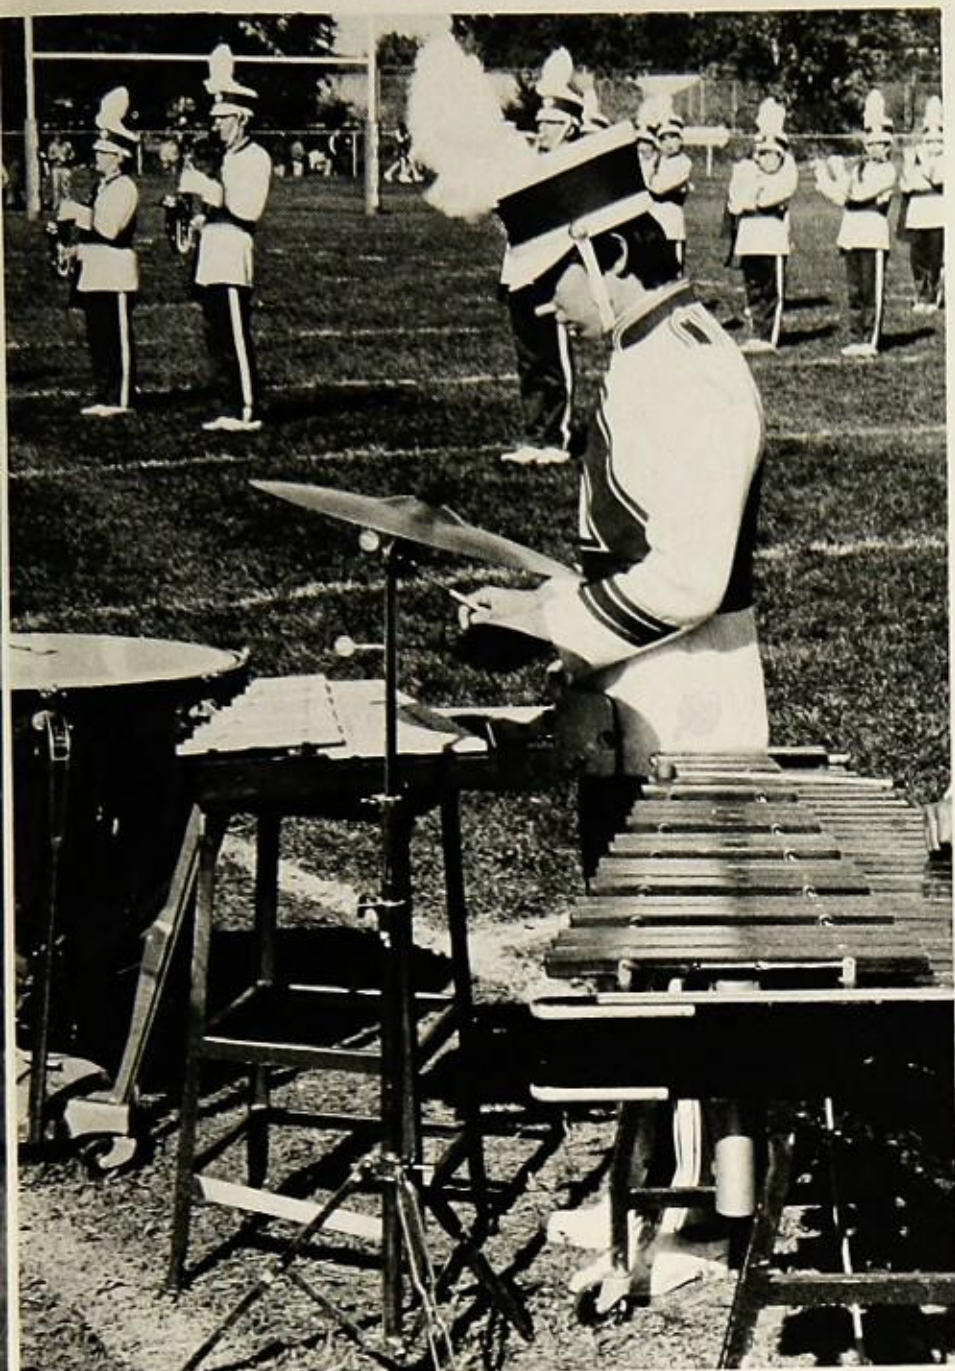

The cheerleaders received a new adviser,

Miss Rebecca Florian, a past S.H.S. cheerleader herself. Even though the size of the Marching Band, and Band Front decreased from seniors graduating the year before, their morale and enthusiasm grew and spread with the donning of new uniforms. All of these teams received a new sense of unity through the emphasis of working together. As the Band Front Captains stated, "The team became one big family made up of the more dedicated members."

The Marching Band, Band Front, and

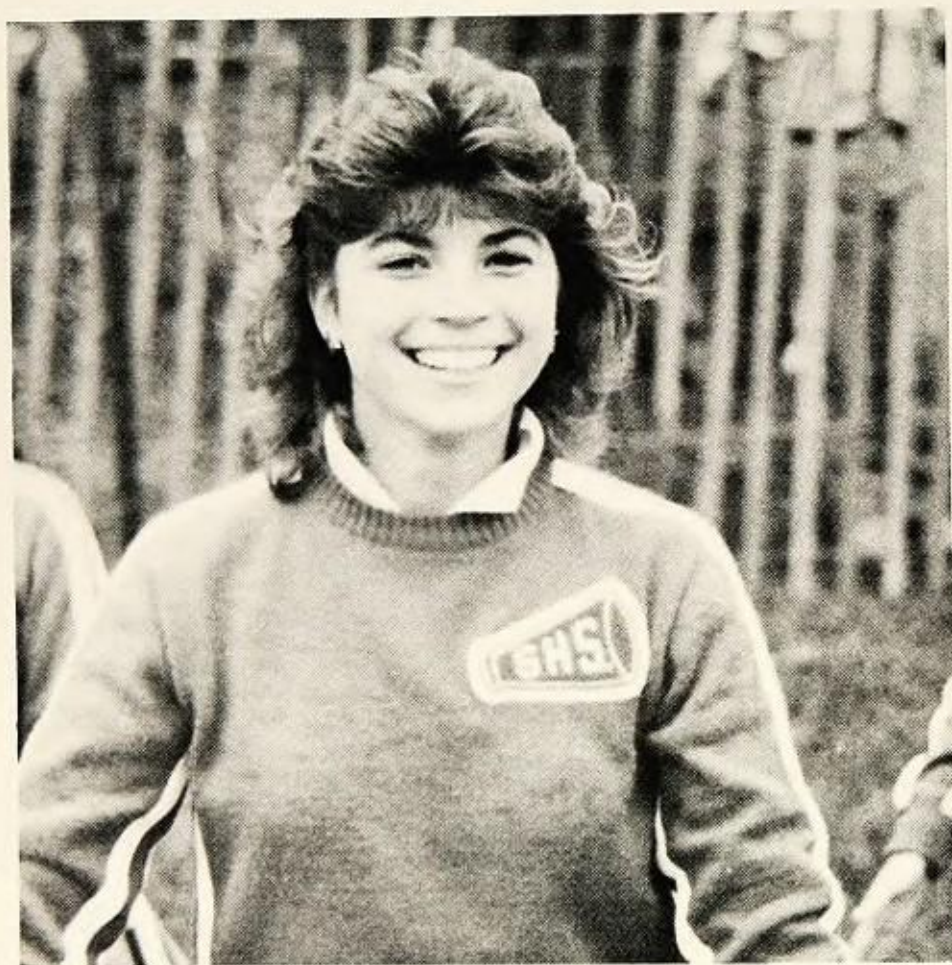

Cheerleaders attended football games and gave added support to the teams by cheering and getting the crowds involved. These spirit leaders were a vital organization at S.H.S.

Changes Mark Football Season

Three changes marked the 1985 SHS Blue Knights Football season. The first change was returning only two varsity starters but the younger players developed and made the football team a solid club. The team was under the leadership of captains Rob Thomson, Leon Grant, Dan Lunn, and Rob Monti.

The second change was the loss of two coaches from last year's State LL's Runner-up team. But with the addition of Coach Daddio to the staff joining Coach Dom and assistants Stranieri and Godbout, the staff once again became one of the top in the state.

The third change in the 1985 season was the end of a Thanksgiving traditional rivalry. The SHS gridders no longer faced a Plainville opponent. The team and the school looked forward to a new series and a very competitive rivalry and tradition against the New Britain Hurricanes.

Stickers Gain Experience

A change of coaches and an extremely tough schedule accompanied the Field Hockey Lady Knights in their 1985 season. While most of their opponents are entering their fourth year of hockey as sophomores, the SHS stickers are just beginning to learn the basic skills of field hockey. This is a definite disadvantage. This year's Knights were led by coach Cindy Birdsall and captain Sue Leach.

Despite valiant efforts, the team compiled a 1-8-1 record. Losing only one senior, the key words for the 1986 season will be experience and depth.

Ability-Attitude Aid Season's Success

The Southington High School Blue Knights boys' soccer team finished a successful season with an exceptional record of thirteen wins and five losses.

The team has improved considerably over the past few years. According to the captains, Scott Berg and Robert Lewandowski, this year's team has grown not only in ability but also in attitude. Last year's juniors have matured into this year's seniors and are now setting excellent examples for the underclassmen. As a result the team's morale has risen to a great height. As with any team, attitude is the key to success and it is quite apparent that the boys' soccer team holds this key.

Soccer Demonstrates Winning Ways

The girls' soccer team experienced a couple of changes in the fall of 1985. The biggest change involved having a new coach, Winston Thompson. Despite his newness with Southington girls' soccer, he coached the team to a successful season, as they have had previously. Again winning the conference title, the girls were undefeated this season.

Another change to the girls' team involved the loss of players. Although they only lost two players due to graduation, they lost all freshmen due to the establishment of junior high school girls' soccer.

Inspite of these changes, the girls' soccer team continued to grow and learn as the spark of enthusiasm continued to ignite.

Unity And Attitude Achieve Goals

The Southington High School Cross Country Team finished another successful season. As always, attitude is the key to all of the success that any team has. Captains Ed Beaupre and Mike Early have conveyed the proper winning attitude to the team members. According to coach Wayne Nakonecny, better known as "Coach Nak," attitude is passed down from the leaders of a team to its underlings. Commenting on the team in general, Coach Nak said, "Any team is a unit with many individuals in it. Just as God made the universe a unit with infant objects all working together in perfect harmony, the members of a sports team must work in perfect harmony with the other members of the team in order for it to be successful." Every team is different and, according to Coach Nak, this difference makes coaching a challenge. All of the team members agree that Coach Nak is the heart of the team and most of the success the team has had should be accredited to him.

Spikers Advance To Playoffs

The Girls Volleyball Team had a successful season this year, suffering tough conference losses to Platt, New Britain, and arch-rival Maloney. The spikers ended up struggling with some mid-season illnesses which resulted in the losses of a few close games. Led by Coach Malczyk and captains Jodie Charamut, Lori Scaringe, Beth McNicholas, and Lori Wilcox, the team gained 9 wins and suffered 9 losses. The Girls obtained a playoff berth in the state tournament for the eighth consecutive year, only to lose to a tough Fitch team. The season ended on a bright note with the selection of Tina Micacci to the All-Conference Team, with Lori Scaringe and Jodie Charamut receiving honorable mention.

Changes Bring New Life To Swimmers

Several changes highlighted the 1985 Boys Swim Team. A new coach was named for the team. Mustafa Jabbar, a coach from the New Britain YMCA and league teams, brought his knowledge and experience to the aquatic Blue Knights. Along with Jabbar's experience, captains Rich Anderson and Dave Paserelli led the team and helped produce a successful season. As stated by Jeff Guzauckas, the leadership and skill of our good swimmers brought more knowledge of the sport to the rest of the team and helped everyone work together as a group. The team had experienced a loss of swimmers and divers due to graduation, but they pulled through with experienced recruits from previous YMCA teams and an enthusiastic diver. The team has won two meets this season to upend a 3-year non-winning drought. The team shall grow and build in the following years to a very competitive level.

Growth Brings Success To Girls Swimmers

A year of growth helped the 1985 Girls Swim Team to success. With the leadership and guidance of Coach Burill, the Girls were well on the way to victory. Captains Jody Hall, Beth Voorhees, and Cindy Voorhees showed their experience and depth to help bring unity and band the team into a working group. Other experienced swimmers helped many newcomers add depth to many events, including diving. The team lost some crucial meets to remain under .500, but the season was proclaimed a success as Stacey Towne, Jody Hall, Cindy and Beth Voorhees, and Karen Shatas qualified for the state open. The team has acquired strength for the following year and the hopes of more pool and practice time look favorable.

Depth Gives Boys Hoopsters Life

The Boys Basketball Team won its first two games of the season to bring about a change from last years' shortcomings. Despite losing five starting seniors the Blue Knights have rebounded to winning ways. Under the guidance of Coach Lorenzo, this years captains Marc Lampkin and Dave Queen have led the Knights to more aggressive play. Returning experience included Pete Betzold, Bill Barry, and the return of Rob Thomson after a one-year absence. These players have sparked the hoopsters along with several incoming sophomore players who show excellent capabilities. The Blue Knights have been looking toward a possible conference championship along with a playoff berth as good play continues to grow.

Girls Basketball Demonstrates Success

The Girls' Basketball Team has shown good success again this season. Under the leadership of Coach Joe Daddio, and captains Angela Spagna and Maureen Forgione, the team is on the way to a winning season. Key players have been Angela Spagna and Tracey Ciosek who lead all scorers. Daddio has stated everyone else on the team is equal in ability and since has given Daddio a small dilemma in choosing starters. Overall, the team has been strong except for a few injuries earlier in the season. At this point, the Lady Knights have secured yet another berth in the Class LL state tournament and have been ranked in the top ten of the high school coaches' state poll. The team also looks to wrap up a CCC Southern Division crown to match the feat of last years' team and continue to have successes in years to come.

Wrestlers Show Courage And Pride

The Wrestling Team has had a successful season, overcoming the loss of many seasoned varsity starters to graduation. The team was young and relatively inexperienced, but the team showed courage and banded together toward a respectable record. The Blue Knights faced some tough opponents at the beginning of the season but gained enough experience to finish the season above the .500 mark. Senior co-captains Rick Solomon and Chris LaPorte have given the team strong leadership and experience. Solomon is currently undefeated and looks to follow in the footsteps of his brothers and remain undefeated through the season and wrap up the Class LL title. The student body supported the team throughout the season and witnessed some fine and exciting matches in the SHS gym. The Blue Knights' home theme was Rocky's "Gonna Fly Now", which was appropriate as the team faced many formidable odds during the season, but found ways to overcome them.

Gymnasts Gain Support

The Gymnastics Team has had an exceptional year while overcoming some difficulties they have encountered. Headed by first year coach Cathy Conway and captains Beth McNicholas, Michelle Graveline, and Jenn Marenholz, the gymnasts have worked hard to lend support and encouragement to each team member. With only three seniors and five juniors this year the younger members of the team have had to contribute greatly in the varsity lineup. Each gymnast has worked diligently to contribute her part in a total team effort. The gymnasts have had to overcome some difficulties such as shortcomings in equipment, new scoring techniques, and the lack of practice time. An added brightness this year is the support from some of the student body, a change from previous years. "It is much more exciting to see fellow students in the stands cheering you on," stated Michelle Graveline. The team wishes more students will take an interest and recognize the team's hard work and efforts.

Some major important sporting events of 1985 are the following. The Chicago Bears led by quarterback Jim McMahon won Super Bowl XX by beating the New England Patriots 46-10. The Bears had an outstanding season, having a record of 14-1. The Kansas City Royals won the World Series. Royals pitcher Bret Saberhagen embraces third baseman George Brett after pitching a five-hitter to give the Royals the World Series crown over the St. Louis Cardinals. Saberhagen, the winner of two series games was named as the Most Valuable Player in the series. SHS track coach Nak was selected as Coach of the Year by the Connecticut High School Coaches Association for his successful 22-year reign as head coach of the Blue Knights track program. During the 22 years Nakoneczney was track coach Southington posted a record of 170-47-3. Also, Pete Rose captured the all-time record for hits in baseball by beating Ty Cobb's record.

FOCAL POINTS

The world encountered many experiences while we were growing up at Southington High School. The space program moved ahead, (and back), international relations progressed, man's conflicts continued, and disasters occurred. Yet all were a part of our lives and our growth.

Nationally, ceremonies were held in Washington, D.C., to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the fall of the saigon government in Vietnam. More than 58,000 names of soldiers dead or missing are inscribed on the memorial.

Hijackings continued. In June, in Athens, Greece, the Sheite hijacked Trans World Airlines jet with 145 passengers and eight crew members. One American hostage was killed. In the Mediterranean, four Palestinian terrorists hijacked the Italian cruise liner Achille Lauro. One American again was killed.

The Apartheid continued to bring about protest in South Africa. Riots were an almost daily occurrence. People often would be running from jeering, stone-throwing groups.

And death took its toll of prominent individuals. Four prominent actors: Orson Welles, Lloyd Nolan, Rock Hudson, and Yul Brynner died late in 1985. Early in 1986 Donna Reed also died.

Locally we suffered through hurricane Gloria in the fall of 1985. Although we had a day off from school, the days without power were not fun. The world situation also interfered with life at Southington High. Due to the terrorist attacks of airports and European cities, all school trips abroad were cancelled.

Four famous actors died this year. (T-L) Orson Welles, (T-R) Lloyd Nolan, (M-L) Rock Hudson, (M-R) Yul Brynner. (Bottom) The Italian cruise liner Achille Lauro while on a Mediterranean cruise was hijacked by four Palestinian terrorists.

The civilian program is halted after the space shuttle Challenger explodes in mid-air.

America's hopes and dreams

While the students at Southington High School were learning from texts, the material for future books was being lived in the United States and abroad.

The physics student learned about gravity in the classroom, the space program defied it. In September 1985, space walker James van Hoften demonstrated how one could walk in space and make repairs. He stood outside the space shuttle Discovery after successfully launching the repaired Syncom satellite. The space program moved ahead showing its great potential. And in 1985-1986 the first civilian was to launch into outer space. After applications, nomination, and rigorous testing, a high school teacher from Concord, New Hampshire, Christa McAuliffe was chosen, for the January flight. The addition of a civilian aboard the space shuttle Challenger brought new enthusiasm to the program. Schools, businesses, and homes throughout the nation watched this momentous occasion, only to recoil in shock as minutes after blast-off the shuttle exploded mid-air. Week of searching brought forth a few remains of the capsule, and months of investigation for the cause ensued. All seven crew members were killed. The nation joined hearts in the mourning for these heroic individuals.

International relations moved ahead as President Reagan met with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Geneva, Switzerland. In November 1985, these two world leaders discussed arms control. The talks were designed to limit the number of nuclear warheads and nuclear weapons in space. Although no definite numbers were set, friendly relations were established and future talks set.

1985 saw many air disasters. Below: Workers clear the Delta Airlines jetliner crash near Dallas.

The mid-East conflict continued in 1985. Above: A distraught Moslem hugs his son moments after they survived a car bomb explosion outside of a West Beirut restaurant.

The U. S. had its own problems in 1985. Right: An entire city block in Philadelphia is on fire from a bomb dropped by police trying to evict the group MOVE.

Conflicts, quakes, and crashes

While we were busy with studies, friends, and activities, history continued to be written throughout the world; and once again, disasters both natural and man-made headed the news.

Central and South America suffered many losses from earthquakes. In September 1985, Mexico City was hit with a series of devastating earthquakes. Few in the metropolitan area of 18 million escaped the first two quakes which registered 8.1 and 7.5 on the Richter Scale. And then without warning, rumblings were heard again in November in Armero, Columbia. Thousands were trapped in mud as rescue workers diligently tried to dig them out.

Man contributed his own efforts to world disasters. War continued in the Mid East and we constantly heard stories of the lives lost due to this conflict. Gorilla warfare, suicide missions, Kaddafi threats, and car bombs were all a part of the insidious war efforts.

Here in the United States, a unique conflict in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania arose. The radical group MOVE had occupied a city block with a fortified rowhouse, refusing the police eviction notice. Unaware that an arsenal was stored inside, the police dropped a small bomb to expedite the eviction. The bomb meeting the arsenal created an explosion, and fire then destroyed an entire city block.

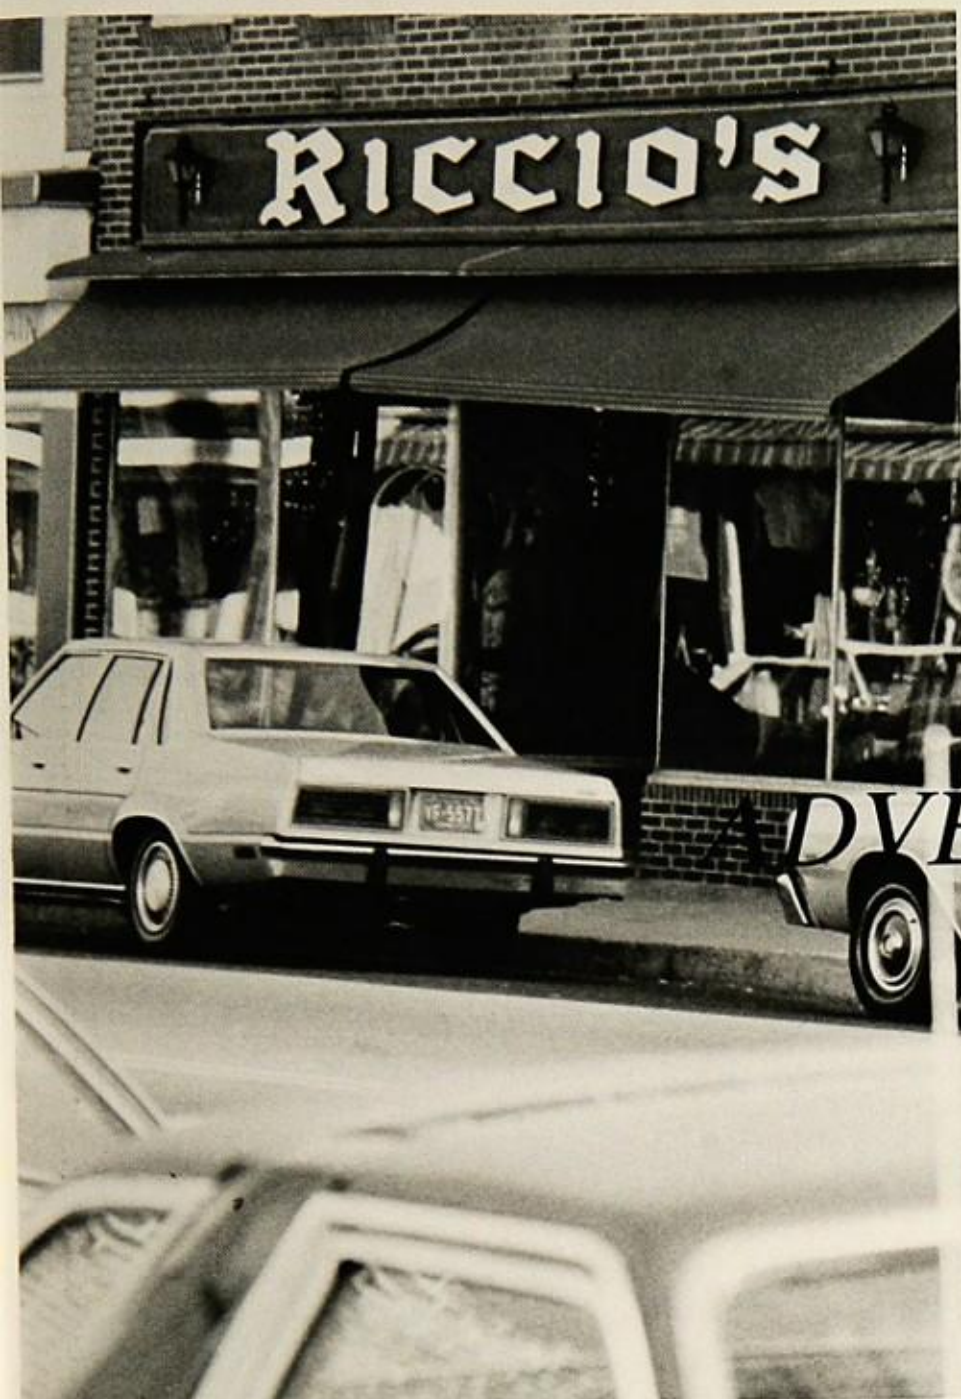

But disasters were not conflicts alone. In August, we saw one of many plane disasters. A Delta Airlines Jetliner plunged to the ground near Dallas when it encountered a severe wind en route from Fort Lauderdale, Florida to Los Angeles, California. 137 people were killed; 34 survived the crash; however, five died of injuries later.

Earthquakes rumbled throughout Mexico City. Left: Workers rummage through debris hoping to find survivors, although the death toll was in the thousands.

Town businesses such as Caldor and Kmart prove to be major employers for high school students. McDonald's and the Drive-In are popular places where teen-agers can be found spending their free time.

ADVERTISEMENTS

When a town increases in population such as Southington has, many local businesses must change to meet the demands of the people. Some of the first stores to occupy downtown Southington such as Riccio's and Raphael's are still serving the public. Some new shops, such as the center shops have joined with the original downtown stores to please all generations of consumers. Along Rt. 10 a person can find restaurants ranging from McDonald's and Pizza Hut to Ponderosa and Mr. Steak. The town of Southington has a variety of businesses to satisfy the young and old.

Riccio's supplies a needed service to many high school boys come prom time. The Popular Restaurant is one of many places people can go to enjoy a delicious meal.

Do Space Aliens Have Naval Lint And Is It
White Like Ours?

Yes, Virginia, space aliens do have naval lint. To determine which color and texture the lint is would depend upon the formation of the galaxy from which the alien in question comes. On planets where metal is the sole resource, clothing is made of a brillo-like material and the "lint" becomes more painful than an average human could endure. Remember that the next time you complain about naval lint.

"WE'LL HELP YOU SMILE WITH STYLE"

Who Invented The Thick Stuff They Serve
In All School Cafeterias?

Yes, the very same company that in youth brought us the unique Green Slime in a Barrel now manufactures the Thick Stuff seen in cafeterias around the world. With the aid of coloring and flavoring additives, Green Slime has been altered to complement meat, poultry vegetables and virtually any edible substance. Since ketchup was confirmed as a vegetable by the Reagan Administration, Green Slime has slowly slipped into the plates and diets of the American student.

Is This Always True ... " Don't Touch That, You Don't Know Where It's Been" ?

This philosophy has been followed by mothers since the time of Eve. Of course, Eve did bite that apple and so marks the largest case of hypocrisy on record. However, the opposite of the question is also true. Do you know where the item in question hasn't been? Why should one care where it's been—that is history. If Eve had known the history of the apple, we would have it made. Case closed.

Are There Any People Who Have Never Eaten Library Paste?

Those who have never eaten library paste are now confined to an island in the South Pacific and are undergoing experiments to determine life expectancy if paste has not been ingested in the elementary years. Paste eaters have lived normal lives and many have gone on to become presidents, chairmen of the board, and very radical hippies. Tests show that paste eaters are not as susceptible to contract the Black Plague which accounts for the decrease in that deadly illness.

If We Only Had Six Fingers, Would The Metric System Be Based On Six?

In actuality, the metric system is not based on the five fingers on the human hand as believed by metric scholars for decades. Professor Theodore E. Metric, founder of the system, was awake on Christmas Eve night laboring to find a basis for his revolutionary system. Suddenly, visions of sugar plums began to dance in his head—to be exact, five sugar plums. This is the basis of our modern system.

Should You Eat That Little Sprig Of Parsley They Serve In Restaurants Or Not?

Of course not! Have you ever requested a side order of parsley! Does the waiter stick that green twig in your doggie bag? Did the couple sitting next to you eat theirs? Have you ever heard of parsley sauce? Does your mom serve parsley at home? She does? Where do you live? Who are you? Who are you? Why am I talking to you? Someone who eats parsley?

"It's Acceptable To Lick Your Fingers When Eating Fried Chicken But Is It Acceptable To Lick Someone Else's"

It is . . . if you lived five thousand years ago. For the past few centuries some humans have used a "handy" invention known as the napkin. Apparently the crude minority which allowed finger-licking in the first place is now attempting to lobby for more fingers to lick. As the well-mannered wash their hands of the matter, somewhere an uncouth tribe of lickers search for followers. The temporary solution; eat your chicken privately.

Who Invented Cheese Balls And Why?

Cheese Balls began life as the result of an experiment gone sour in a chemical laboratory in the 1940's. In the search to make a better grade of styrofoam, an assistant chemist began heating raw styrofoam on a table covered with his co-workers' cheese sandwiches which had just been unpacked for lunch. An explosion occurred which hurled molten styrofoam onto Swiss, American and Nacho cheeses. The result is now a cheese legend.

An Outstanding Teacher
And A Dear Friend
Who Will Be Remembered In Our Hearts Always,
Cindy And Teri

I hope the day will be a lighter highway, for friends are found on every road.
Can you ever think of any better way, for the lost and weary traveler to go?
It seems to me a crime that we should age, these fragile times should never slip me by.
A time you never can or shall erase,
as friends together watch their childhood fly.
Making friends for the world to see,
let the people know, you got what you need.
With a friend at hand, you will see the light,
if your friends are there, then everything's all right.

Is It True What They Say About Black Jellybeans?

Not all black jellybean gossip is true. Sure they can double as an emergency pen eraser. True licorice freaks, though, are in jellybean heaven when the right bean crosses their tongues. Why do the idle gossips pick on one bean? Surely the red dye in red jellybeans would make a greater scandal. It's just because there are fewer black jellybeans in a bag to speak out against unwarranted slander.

Has Anyone Under The Age Of Sixteen Ever Eaten Brussel Sprouts Voluntarily?

The Brussel Sprout, the poor man's cabbage, is fatal if eaten before the age of sixteen. Every normal child has an instinctive repulsion to the ugly vegetable which relentlessly appears on tables of frustrated mothers hoping to murder their unsuspecting children. But as the saying goes, "Only the good die young." The Green Giant has quickly claimed more youths in the U.S. than Jason of the "Halloween" series.

Tall Oaks From Little Acorns Grow

Connecticut's acorns give us oaks of tradition and change . . .

Fall of 1985 brought to the class of 1986 a victory for the girls' Powder Puff team over the Class of 1985.

For the growth of Connecticut's education we can thank the past. Did you know that much of what aids us today was first established here? In 1556 the first public library was set up in New Haven. Hartford resident, Jupiter Hammond was the first published American black poet — opening many doors for others. For standardized American grammar, we thank Noah Webster, who published his Compendious Dictionary in 1806. Born in West Hartford in 1758, Webster also attended Litchfield Law School, which was the first law school in America. On Monday, October 29, 1764 the first issue of the Connecticut Courant, #00, was issued in Hartford by Thomas Green. The Courant has been continuously published since 1764, and is the oldest newspaper publication in America.

Our pasts create our futures; our traditions are stepping stones for our growth; change gives us freedom to be. As students from Southington, we have grown from the heritage of Connecticut and the activities of our lives.

During the 350th birthday celebration of Connecticut, we turn our thoughts to its beginnings. Connecticut had many firsts in education, industry, medicine, and other areas. These firsts allowed other individuals to develop new and better ways for our society; and Connecticut continues to offer growth and excellence.

Individually, the students of Southington have grown from their own small starts. Each event, each activity, each study pursued contributed to the people we are today.

Southington High School has undergone many changes in its brief ten year history.

When we think of Connecticut and the traditional seasons, the thought of the cold winters of New England set into our heads. The Christmas season full of snow and pines is a visual sight to us all. Did you know that the first Christmas tree was set up on the Denslow Farm in Windsor Locks in 1777. Hendrick Rode-more trimmed and illuminated this special tree. For those cold winters all of our heads need a warm hat. Zydor Benedict of Danbury established the first hat manufactory in 1780. Danbury became the hat capital of the world once the industry thrived. To keep the rest of our bodies warm, "Connecticut Brown" the name of the first produced wool fabric in America could be worn. In New York, April 30, 1789, President Washington and Vice-president Adams wore this wool.

The activities of Southington High water the acorns creating strength in the limbs of our future.

Many favorite pastimes were first developed or improved upon in Connecticut. Did you know that in 1920 a group of Yale students discovered "Frisbie" by sailing empty pie tins? Where would we be without FM radio? In 1939 WDRC in Hartford became the first FM radio station in the world. Golf was improved when a Bristol company in 1910 manufactured the first steel golf club shafts, thus removing the hazards of breaking a wooden club. If flowers are your avocation, Hartford is the place to be. The first municipal rose garden was laid out in 1903 in Elizabeth Park. When we think of fun, the word food pops up, also. Louie's Lunch in New Haven served the first hamburger in 1895. This started what became the model for "fast food" restaurants.

DECA brings out the enthusiasm and ambition in future business leaders: L-R Erik Gyllenhammer, Dave Murphy, Paula Zajac, and Matt Stanton.

Going up against the opposing team, Pete Betzold shows energy and strives for his goals.

Many achievements for women were first granted in Connecticut. Mrs. Mary Kies of South Killingly was the first woman to receive a patent in her own name. She patented a weaving process. Emeline Robert Jones of New Haven and Danielson entered into a dentistry practice in 1855, the first woman to do so. In 1870 Maria Sanford, a native of Old Saybrook, was the first woman professor appointed in the United States. The first woman ordained to the Unitarian ministry was C.C. Burleigh, ordained in Brooklyn on October 5, 1871. Graduating from the Coast Guard Academy in New London in 1985, Denise L. Matthews of Old Saybrook became the first woman to graduate at the head of the class from a military academy. She was given the pick of assignments and elected to serve in Honolulu.

Many items which make our lives easier and more enjoyable were first produced in Connecticut. In 1842 Leverett Candee of New Haven established the first factory to make rubber shoes and boots. The first hoop skirts were manufactured in Derby in 1830. The first United States patent for significant improvement in the corkscrew was issued to Philos Blake of New Haven in 1860. While just a few years earlier, 1858, Ezra J. Warner of Waterbury received a patent for a can opener on January 5.

In 1896 the first electric light socket with a pull chain was patented by Harvey Hybbal in Bridgeport. Thanks to the improvements of such simple inventions, steps and energy are saved every day.

Every once in a while, students change their pace and become engrossed in their studies. Seniors Kelly Sequenzia and Lisa Palmese listen attentively.

I Wish I Was Eighteen Again

*At a bar down in Dallas, an old man chimed in,
and I thought he was out of his head;
just being a young man
I just laughed it off
when I heard what that old man had said.*

*He said, "I'll never again turn the young ladies' heads or go running off into the wind;
I'm three-quarters home
from the start to the end, and I wish I was eighteen again.*

*Oh, I wish I was eighteen again,
and going where I've never been.
But old folks and old oaks
standing tall just pretend;
I wish I was eighteen again."*

*Now, time turns the pages
And, oh, life goes by so fast;
The years turn the black hair all gray.
I talk to some young folks;
Hey, they don't understand
The words this old man's got to say.*

*"Oh, I wish I was eighteen again,
and going where I've never been.
But old folks and old oaks
standing tall just pretend;
I wish I was eighteen again."*

Colophon

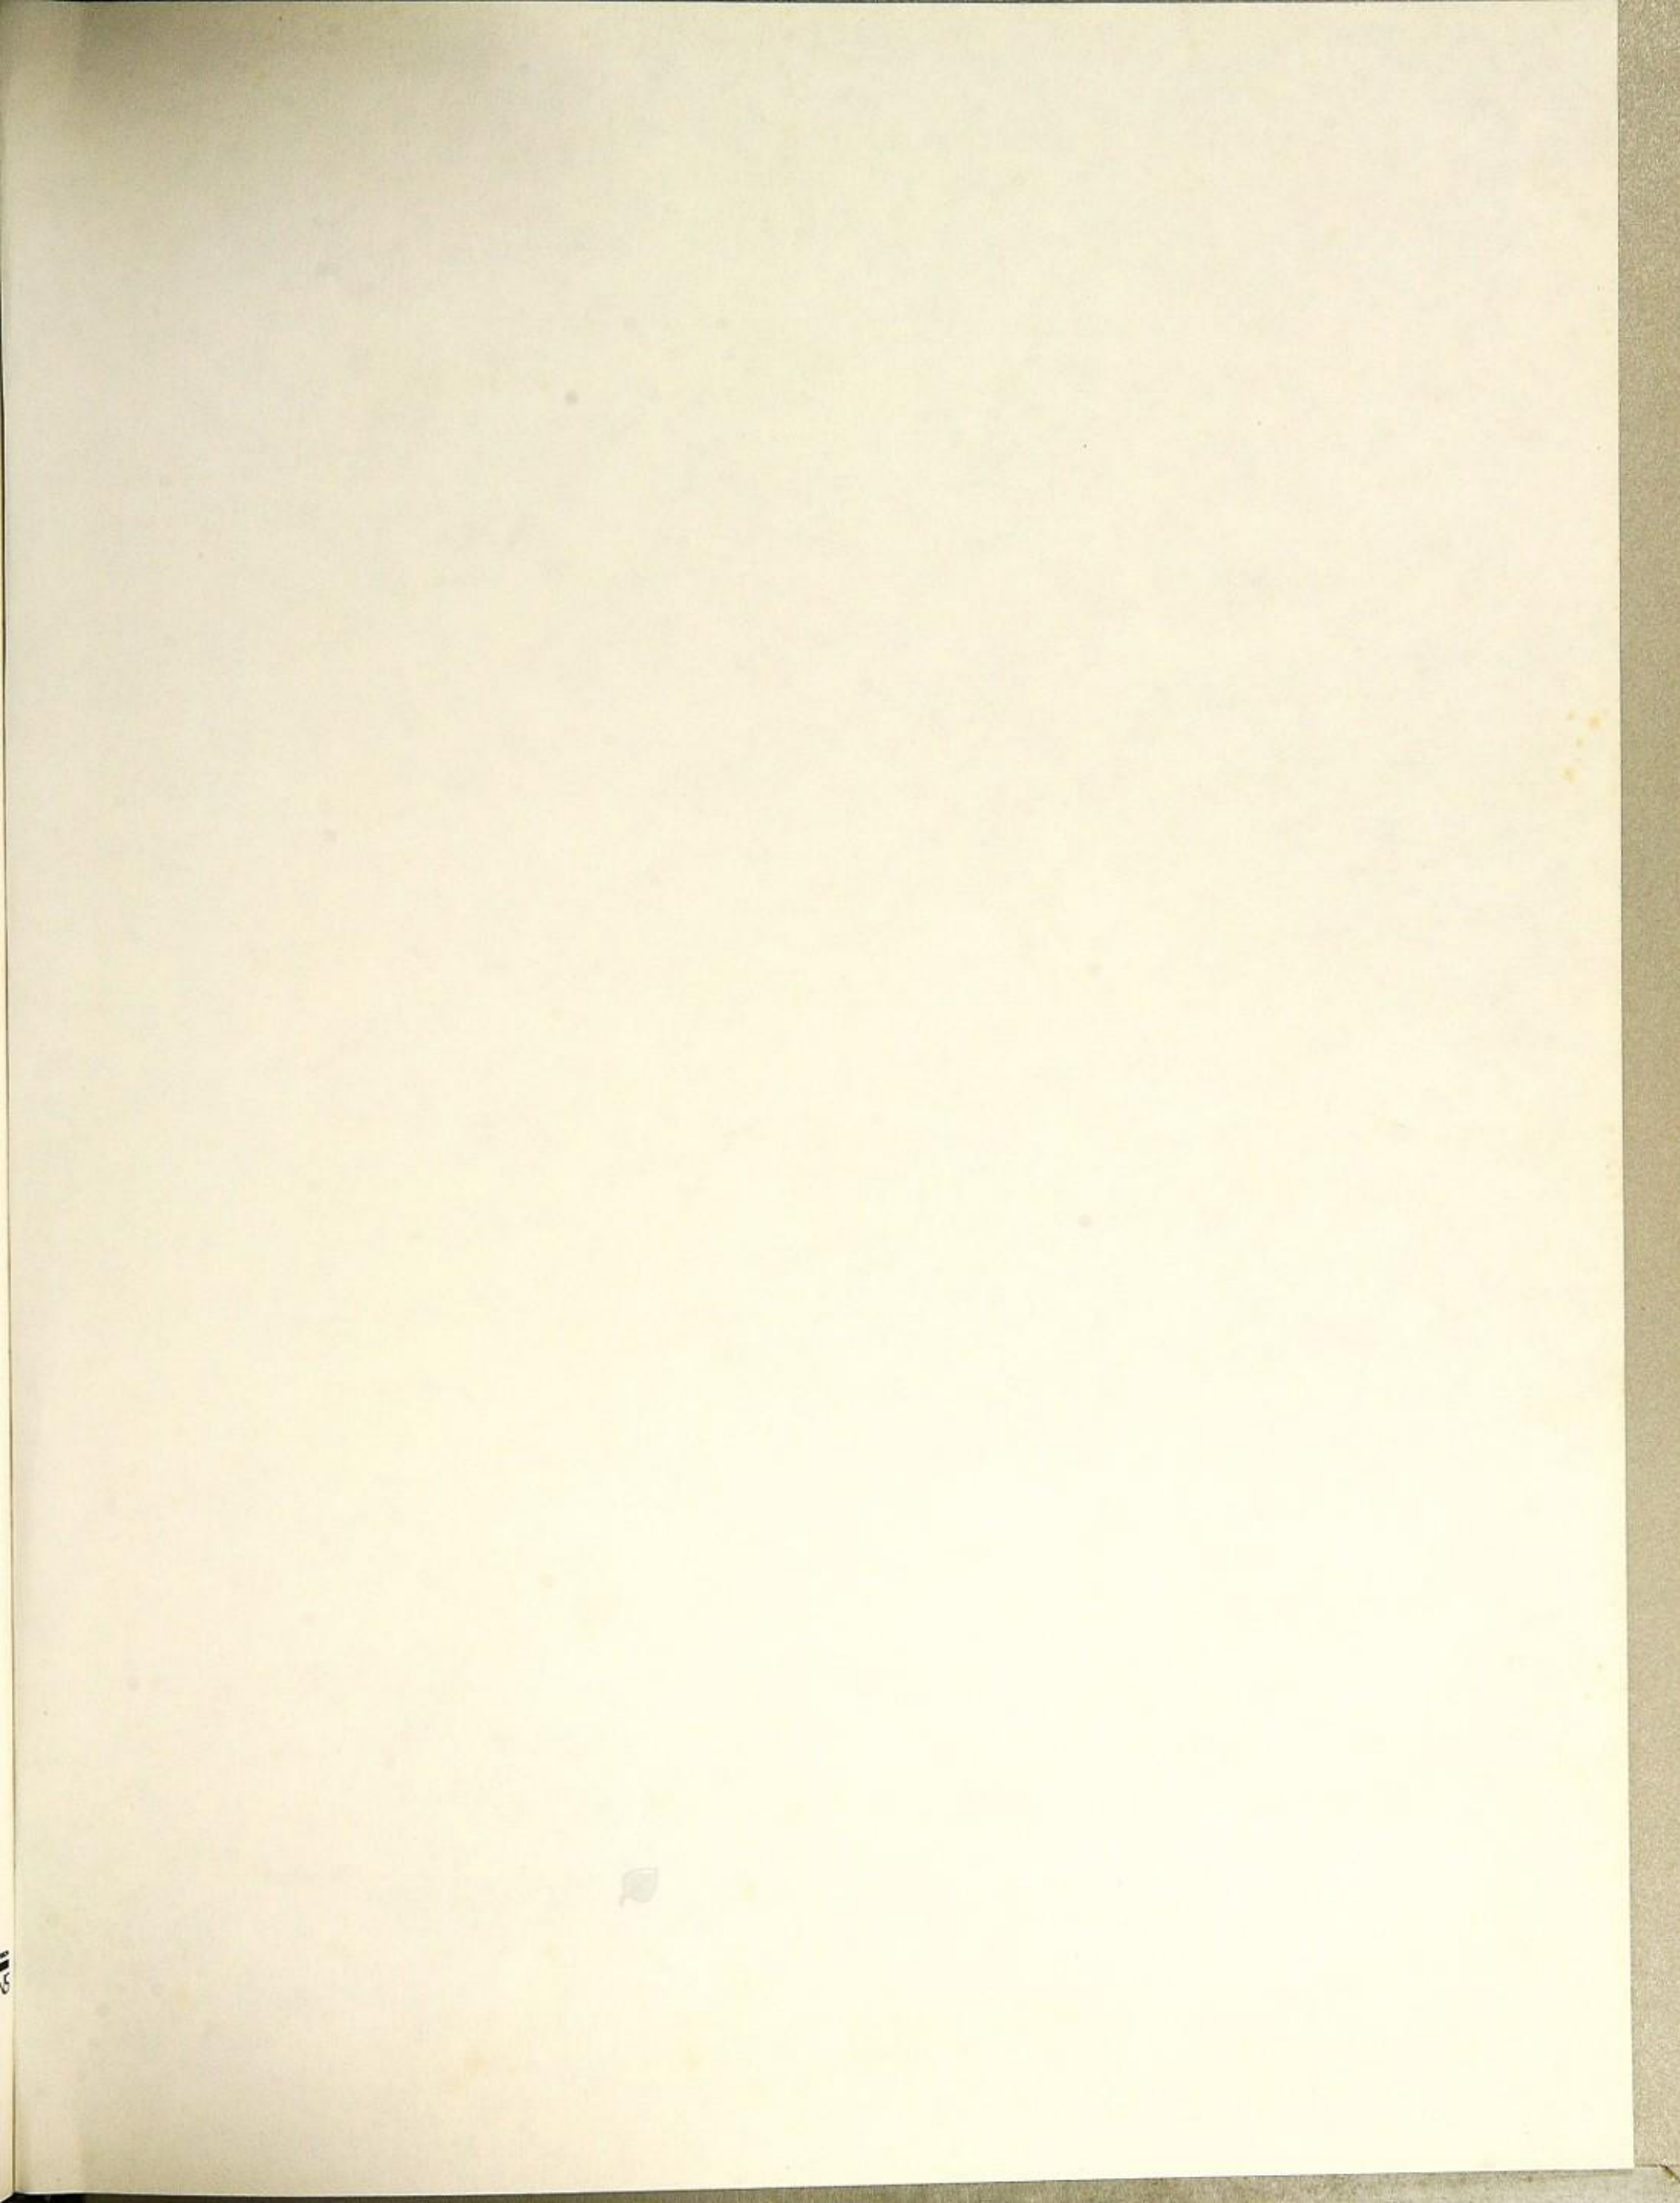

Josten's Printing and Publishing Division of Topeka, Kansas, printed 700 copies of the Chronicle. Michael J. Alfano, local Josten's representative, and Kathy Brooks, in-plant consultant aided in the publication of the 244 page book which was printed on 100 pound double coated enamel gloss paper.

The book's cover is grain Cordova color grey (#513) with the theme, "Tall oaks from little acorns grow," depicted graphically with custom embossed dies. Art concepts were student oriented, the cover design completed by Josten's art staff. An applied overtone rub in blue with blue (#347) applied silkscreen title accent the cover. The endsheets use stainless steel (#289) with medium blue ink applied to the front endsheet for the table of contents.

Body copy is 11 point Century Schoolbook for most of the book. Most body copy begins with Roman dropped initials. Most cutlines are in 9 point. Headlines vary throughout the book, the majority being 24 point Times Roman with 14 point sub-headlines. The divider page titles are 42 point Times Roman.

Professional photography was provided by T.D. Brown, Inc. of Cranston, R.I., supplemented by student photographers. Associated Press provided the world photographs.

*as the seasons
of our lives change.
I would like to wish the Class of 1986 fortune
in their future growth.
